SATURDAY, OCT. 4, 1884.

Butler Rally.

The first rally in Quincy by the People's party occurred at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening. The attendance was not large, yet there was considerable enthusiasm manifested whenever Gen. Butler's name was mentioned. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Geo. A. Ordway, and Mr. William B. Barry was called to preside.

Mr. Barry first introduced Col. A. C. Drinkwater, of Braintree, who gave his reasons for leaving the Democratic party and joining the People's party. He was disgusted with the Democrats, and their action at the National Convention at Chicago. He severely criticized the manner in which Gov. Cleveland secured the nomination. He claimed that it was in opposition to the will of the majority, through the enforcement of the "unit rule."

Charles H. Litchman of Marblehead was next introduced by Mr. Barry. He spoke of the old parties as being corrupt, and that it was time that a change was made. The longer a party remained in power the more corrupt it became, and it would be the ultimate result with the People's party should it be finally triumphant. He spoke in opposition to John Q. Adams, Esq., who has been nominated for Congress. He said that Adams refused to support Gen. Butler in his recent gubernatorial campaign, and he should not, therefore, now receive the votes of Gen. Butler's friends.

At the close of Mr. Litchman's remarks all those interested in forming a Town Committee of the People's party were invited to remain. Mr. William Burke was chosen chairman and John G. Wodick secretary, and the following gentlemen were elected sub-committee: George A. Ordway, chairman, William H. Welch, Albert G. Delaney, Frederick Blacklock, William Roy, James Sullivan, Samuel King, S. M. Corbitt, John Kapples, Richard Stevenson, William B. Barry, Thomas Fahey, James Galvin, John G. Wodick, Timothy Keefe, John D. Sullivan, Edward Murphy, John Sullivan, James Callahan.

Blaine and Logan Battalion.

A paper in the hands of a few energetic and enthusiastic workers, having received something over a hundred signatures, a call was made by the committee in view of forming the same into a battalion of torch bearers, and in the Lyceum Room, on Saturday evening last, a Blaine and Logan battalion was successfully organized by the election of the following officers:

Major and Commander, Isaac M. Holt. Quartermaster, F. J. Honey. Quartermaster Sergeant, John P. Bigelow.

Adjutant, Horace F. Spear. Captain, C. A. George Craig; 1st Lieutenant, Benj. Johnson; 2d Lieutenant, John O. Owens.

Captain, Co. B., Frank Burrell; 1st Lieutenant, Charles Winslow; 2d Lieutenant, A. L. Mead.

On the following Monday evening, a second meeting was held, and by the resignation of Mr. Frank Burrell, Capt. Co. B., 1st Lieutenant Charles Winslow was promoted captain, 2d Lieutenant A. L. Mead was promoted 1st Lieutenant, and Harry Smith was elected to fill the vacancy of 2d Lieutenant, caused by the promotion of 2d Lieutenant A. L. Mead.

It being understood that about forty would constitute the number for each company, and there having been extra signatures, it was found necessary to form another company, which was done. The officers are as follows:

Captain, Co. C, G. Horace Ellison; 1st Lieutenant, Charles Burgin; 2d Lieutenant, James A. Neale.

Meetings have been held every evening of this week for military instruction, preparatory to a parade on Friday evening, Oct. 25, during escort duty to the Williston station, the line being formed in the vicinity of President's Bridge. It is expected that all will be uniformed and equipped.

TO VOTERS. In our advertising columns will be found a notice of the Board of Registrars giving information of the time of the meetings when voters may have their names placed on the list of voters. No person whose name is not on the list of voters on the 4th day of November next, and no registration can take place after Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 10 p. m. The person wishing to be registered must apply in person when the board is in session, having the receipted tax bills, and also, if of foreign birth, their naturalization papers. There is sufficient time given to have the work all done in a lawful manner if the voters will promptly make application. Do not delay until the last moment, a rare and scarce chance to be done before the streets are where the voters resided on the first of May, as required by law; and not where they may reside to-day.

REWARD. A reward of $700 is now offered for the conviction of the rascal who set the fire in this town on the morning of the eighteenth of September. The selection have offered $300, and Mr. Lewis Bass and Mr. Charles F. Adams, Jr., $200 each. We hope this amount will be an inducement to some of our officers to try and secure the incendiary. We think the amount rather small for the amount of labor, trouble and vexations attending the conviction of rogues of this stamp, and wish it was made $1500. Still we hope some officer may be stimulated by this sum to try his skill in bagging the miscreant.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON. To-day, Saturday, Oct. 4th, at twenty minutes past five standard time, a rare and striking phenomenon may be seen. The moon, totally immersed in the shadow of the earth, will then be rising in the East, and the bright sun will be setting in the West. A few minutes later the eastern edge of the moon will begin to emerge from the shadow, and a hour later, or at 6h. 45m., the whole eclipse will end.

The Journal says: For the observation of this eclipse in the vicinity of Boston an elevated position will be necessary, and an opera glass will be found useful.

PERSONAL. Mr. John B. Bass, our postmaster and veteran soldier, is still confined to his residence. He has been housed up most of the time since last April, but we hope he may soon be able to be around once more.

Brief Locals.

A new milch cow is advertised for sale.

Mr. Ralph G. Crane has gone to Los Angeles, California.

F. A. Moreland offered the ladies two special bargains in underwear.

Ladies desirous of securing help should not fail to read the advertisements.

Miss C. S. Hubbard invites the ladies to inspect her new Fall and Winter goods.

Persons desiring board in a private family are referred to our advertising columns.

Mrs. Lucy M. Dwell is visiting her daughter Mrs. Neidhardt, in New York City.

Miss Sarah W. Thatcher of Yarmouth Port has entered the Quincy Training School.

The regular monthly session of Probate Court will be held in Quincy on Wednesday next.

The number of names on the new voting list is 2,066; the letter B has the largest number.

Miss A. A. Bartlett invites the attention of our readers to the special bargains to be found at her store.

Miss Laura A. Hinkley, a former resident of Quincy, visited her friends in this town on Thursday last.

Miss Nellie Coolidge, having enjoyed a brief season of recreation, returned from Pawtucket on Thursday.

There is to be a change in the opening and closing hours of the Crane Public Library on and after Monday next.

Mr. Elias A. Perkins fell from a tree on Thursday. Although no bones were broken, he was considerably bruised.

Mr. Bryant N. Adams will sell seven acres of excellent rowen, in lots to suit, as will be seen by advertisement.

Mrs. Munroe, grandmother of Mrs. George T. Waldron of Quincy, died recently in Chicago at the advanced age of ninety-four years and eight months.

Fruit and flowers for the Boston hospitals may be left on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday next, at the house of Mrs. George B. Wendell, Quincy avenue.

Prof. Walker opens a class this morning, at the Robertson House, for instruction in dancing and deportment. Let those who intend to join be on hand promptly at 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Clarence Gill has purchased the express business formerly managed by Mr. Howard W. Hosie, and he hopes by careful attention to all orders, to merit a share of public patronage.

Do not fail to read the advertisement of W. H. Dobble, who has just received one thousand remnants of flannel of all colors. Also linen remnants suitable for toweling. Give him a call.

Several ladies from this town attended the fifty-fifth semi-annual meeting of the Norfolk conference of Congregational churches, which was held in the Second Congregational church of Cohasset on Tuesday last.

The poems of the late F. M. Adlington of Weymouth are now in the publisher's hands, and his daughter, Mrs. Amy M. Hilley, will commence at once to canvass the town of Quincy for subscribers to the work. She hopes to be able to deliver the book about the last of this month.

We are sorry to learn that Capt. James Newcomb had the misfortune to get his sleep on a bar, near the depot, at Rockport, by which accident his work was badly damaged. This was the Captain's second mishap this season, the other accident being the breaking of his mast.

PARTY SOCIAL. None of those who attended the second social at the Universalist vestry could have felt any regret for going. The supper was one of the best and justice requires that the same be recorded of the entertainment. Mrs. Grace C. Adams sang several selections with much sweetness, taste, and expression, delighting all present. Mr. Charles E. Snow was evidently at his best. His selections were of a varied character, and called forth dramatic action as well as pathos and humor. He has the rare power of absorbing his subject, and his intelligence and enthusiasm carry the hearer with him irresistibly. We are happy to learn that Mr. Snow's services as a professional reader are in frequent demand. We cordially commend him to the public and wish him every success.

THE QUINCY DIRECTORY. We are pleased to say that the second edition of the Quincy Directory is fast nearing completion. The publishers had intended to have had the work issued before this, but owing to a rash of work have been obliged to delay it. Another week it is hoped will see it in the hands of the binder. If any person doing business in town, is desirous of having an advertisement inserted in it, and who has neglected doing so, they can be accommodated by furnishing copy before Monday noon next. There will be but a limited number published, and all who are desirous of procuring copies should make early application for same. As a book of reference it will be invaluable. It contains over four thousand five hundred names.

SKATING RINK. The work on the large skating rink, being erected near the Quincy station, has progressed quite rapidly this week. Some thirty hands are employed. It is making quite a show, and will attract more attention before it is completed. The sides are up and possibly next week the rink will be put on. If it is completed this month, our citizens can expect to see one or more large political gatherings in it before it is opened to skaters.

WEST QUINCY. The Democrats of West Quincy, opened the campaign on Wednesday evening by a ratification meeting at Temperance Hall. There was a large audience present and much enthusiasm. Mr. Patrick F. Lacy presided, and addresses were made by Hon. Joseph J. Kelley of Cambridge, and Mr. John B. Murphy of Boston.

GOLDEN WEDDING. Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Fisher of West Padlam will celebrate the fifty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Thursday next.

Quincy Post Items.

AWAKE!

We often hear the cry in our midst, Oh the Point is so dull! and there is good ground for the charge. This is true also of other parts of Quincy and whether there is any help for those or not we cannot say, but at the Point we think a change might soon be brought about if a right course was taken. We can count 75 young people between the ages of eighteen and twenty-eight in the Point District, who feel the lethargy of the place most, who want and should have some excitement at least once a week during the fall and winter months which are before us. There are but few whose evenings are so busily employed but that they could attend with enjoyment and benefit a good course of lectures, interspersed perhaps by a literary entertainment, a lively debate or a concert, and which if well arranged and carried out would insure an audience of 100 or 200 people. In a small place like this where the people are well acquainted, all that is needed is some person or persons with life and energy to make the start, and the rest would be easily followed, and there would be no reason why something of this sort cannot be done and done at once.

If the young men of this place could be interested and would take hold with the zest which characterized last winter's minstrel shows, for instance, it would be a great step in the right direction.

PERSONAL. Mr. Lemuel Baxter is making some improvements in his house. A commodious two-story I will replace the small one, and other inside work will make his place one of the best in the town.

Mrs. H. M. Higgins went to New York on Friday last, and will make a visit of two or three months with her son, Capt. Lucius Higgins.

Miss Grace Collier has been appointed telegraph operator at Newport, R. I., and began her duties there on Wednesday last. She had just returned from Hull where she had held a like position during the summer.

Rev. Mr. Frary of Weymouth filled the pulpit of the Congregational church on Sunday last and preached an excellent sermon. His informal talk in the evening was wholly practical and much enjoyed, especially by the young people who gave close attention to his remarks.

Miss Annie B. Sampson is enjoying a few days at her home.

Miss Minnie J. Carter has accepted the position of organist at the Congregational church.

Mr. Redding of Malden, who has been occupying the Worcester estate during the summer, purchased the same at auction last week.

Jas. F. Harlow and H. M. Federhen, Jr., entered as freshmen at Harvard College on Monday last.

The flowers which decorated the table at the Congregational church on Sunday last looked very beautiful and were much admired by all. Thanks are due Miss Kate Starbuck for this and other tasteful displays made each Sunday during the summer.

Albert C. Newcomb of Long Branch, N. J., is visiting at Mrs. B. B. Newcomb's.

THIS AND THAT. Twenty-five young men from the Point have joined Company B of the Quincy Blaine and Logan Battalion of Plumed Knights, which is offered as follows: Capt. Chas. F. Wisley; First Lieut. A. L. Mead; Second Lieut. J. Harvey Smith; Sergeant, John Ring and Corporal, Herbert L. Nett.

For the burning of a pile of brush at the Neck on Monday night an alarm of fire was struck from box 26 in the centre, as some misinformed person telephoned that boxes 72 and 73 in this district would not work.

The smelting season has begun in good earnest, and several have made good catches the past week.

A good number from the Point attended the Congregational Conference at Cohasset on Tuesday last.

ARRIVED. Sept. 27th, schooner Jos. Rudd, Capt. Hallcock, from Philadelphia, with 470 tons coal for Cyrus Paul.

Oct. 21, schooner Ruth Shaw, Capt. Carlrow, from Philadelphia, with 500 tons coal for J. F. Sheppard & Sons.

Oct. 21, schooner Radiant, Capt. Hardy, from Lincolnville, Me., with hay for J. F. Sheppard & Sons.

The schooner Ruth Carline passed through the Point bridge this week with 450 tons water pipe for Weymouth, the first of several freights which will come by water.

The schooner Everett Webster, Capt. Barker, the bridge which ever passed through the bridge, laden with 702 tons of coal, discharged at Weymouth the past week. It took two tugs to put her over the bridge.

The schooner Wm. Collins, Capt. Daniel Higgins of Quincy Point, arrived from Philadelphia with coal for Richards, Weymouth. E. M. F.

For the Patriot. West Quincy.

On Thursday evening the concert given at the Methodist Church was well attended and appreciated by the audience. The readings were appropriate and pleasing, and the solos by Messrs. Abby Chamberlin and Barbara Robertson, and the duet by the Misses Miller, were finely rendered.

A Sabbath school exhibition will be given next Wednesday evening, October 8.

A course of instructive lectures and concerts have been suggested for the coming season, arrangements for which will be made if the popular favor and support can be assured.

MECHANIC'S FAIR, BOSTON. Business glides along as smoothly at the Mechanics' fair as if the exhibition had been running for years. The new edition of the catalogue just issued shows that 150 changes in the way of addition and improvement have been made since the fair opened, and the gate returns show that the public appreciate all that has been done by the management.

Of the musical programmes in the Exhibition, the fair paper, is a great convenience, and with a few bright notes each day the paper will be as interesting as the exhibits whose presence it records. Hall's band and orchestra are receiving much praise from visitors, and their musical numbers are selected with a view to suit the popular taste.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER. The Democrats of Norfolk County met at Dedham on Wednesday and nominated James Mackintosh of Needham for County Commissioner.

LONDON has 9500 calls which carry 88,000 passengers daily. Paris has 5500 which carry but 50,000 daily. The London calls earn $1,000,000 per annum. The Paris calls half as much.

Flag Raising.

On Friday night of last week the Democrats and Independents of Atlantic raised a flag bearing the names of Cleveland and Hendricks and Endicott and Grinnell.

The demonstration took place in front of the Atlantic House, which was profusely decorated with Chinese lanterns and bunting, and from the piazza of which a band of music rendered popular airs.

Mr. William A. Moseley presided at the meeting, which was addressed by Mr. Joseph Quincy and Philip J. Doherty of Boston.

Mr. Quincy made a forcible address, which seemed to be appreciated by a large and enthusiastic audience, many of whom came from Neponset and elsewhere.

It proved a very successful affair, and terminated with a discharge of fireworks and a cannon, and rousing cheers for Cleveland and Hendricks.

District Court, Quincy.

The following criminal cases were before the court since our last issue:

Hosea B. Hayden, 24, of Braintree, for illegally selling intoxicating liquors. Found guilty and fined $50 and costs.

Joseph Fratus of Cohasset, for an assault on Mary Silva. Discharged.

Thomas Patterson, George E. Barry and Thomas Holly for being tramps, were sent to the State Workhouse at Westboro' for six months.

John Kelly of Weymouth, W. H. Boynton of Quincy, and Walter Bell of Milton, were each fined $1 and costs for being drunk.

Eben Holbrook of Weymouth, for being drunk, was discharged.

Joseph Dunn of Boston, for larceny of beach gravel at North Weymouth. Discharged on payment of costs.

Benjamin Roberts of Randolph, for being a tramp, was sent to the State workhouse at Westboro' for six months.

For the Patriot. Neponset.

The A. T. Stearns Company are fast cleaning the remains of the fire from their wharf and yard, and have already commenced rebuilding. Mr. A. T. Stearns, President of the company, who was absent at the South at the time, is expected home to-day.

The wedding of Miss Phoebe H. West and Mr. Allen King of Institute Heights, Weymouth, took place at the Church of the Advent, Boston, on Wednesday last. Miss West has been for years a resident of this village. She is a direct descendant of the Minot family who were landholders and residents of this place 120 years ago. Miss West has traveled extensively in Europe. She took a deep interest in the temperance and other reformatory movements, and will be much missed by the people of this place.

BURNED. The Glen House and all the outbuildings were totally destroyed by fire at eight o'clock on Wednesday evening. It was one of the largest and best known houses in the whole White Mountain region. It had accommodations for over 500 guests and always had good seasons. It was a finely appointed house, its parlors being 100 by 60 feet in area, and luxuriously furnished. The famous carriage road to the hotel of the Washington, began at the Glen House.

AN ENTERPRISING GENTLEMAN. We are pleased to learn that Mr. Wm. C. Townsend's trade in Quincy granite, has rapidly increased, since he opened a yard in this place. He now employs at his works in South Quincy, 100 men, and has a large number of orders for another derick. The Old Colony Company will extend a switch into his yard soon, it being a few rods from the main track, which will enable him to ship direct from his works.

In addition to the number of men employed at his works, Mr. Townsend contracts with other yards for a large amount of work, which he could not manufacture in time for fall shipments, so that over one hundred men are now employed on his orders.

We learn from reliable authority that he does an immense business at 510 to 536 West 20th street, New York, and at Zanesville, Ohio, Carrara, Italy, and Aberdeen, Scotland. Such enterprising men as Mr. Townsend have put new life to business, and are consequently welcomed in any community.

FOR TAKING GRAVEL. On Thursday morning Officer Lancelotti of Quincy, arrested Captain Joseph Dunn of the sloop Shawmut, of Boston, at North Weymouth, for appropriating gravel, valued at $10, from the premises of Mr. Joseph Adams. He was arraigned before the District Court, and finally discharged on payment of costs.

For the Patriot.

Adams or Long?

The nomination of John Quincy Adams by the Democrats of this district is an exceedingly creditable one to that party. Mr. Adams is well known to be able, fearless and incorruptible. No man living in this district is better qualified by nature, education and political experience to perform the duties of the legislator and the statesman. The Democrats have done well in placing his name before the people as a candidate for congressional honors.

His competitor, Mr. John D. Long, has recently done a good deal to forfeit the confidence and the support of many of those who, in the past, have been his strongest backers. Elected to Congress as a civil service reformer, he saw nothing improper in a vote for a corrupt politician like Keifer to be Speaker of the House. As a tariff reformer, if he ever had any pretensions to that character, he did nothing in Congress to show that he had the least sympathy with that cause. His speech last spring before the State convention was a masterpiece of intemperate protectionist advocacy. To-day Mr. Long is perambulating the country making white-washing speeches in defence of the "Man from Maine." It is difficult, when reading Mr. Long's campaign speeches, to believe at once in his sincerity and in his intelligent appreciation of the evidence against Mr. Blaine.

He pronounces the Mulligan letters as "wonderful good taste." Surely a very odd criticism of letters which, in the opinion of the great majority of those who have carefully read them, bear incontestable evidences of Mr. Blaine's repeated falsifications, and of his prostitution of official power to the purposes of private gain.

Mr. Long is a talented man. As a maker of honeyed speeches he cannot be excelled. He is a master-hand in dealing out "laffy" to the crowd. But the times demand men in politics of strong character, of positive convictions, and of uncompromising principles. Let us have a representative in Congress of this kind, rather than one of Mr. Long's kind. In other words, let us have John Quincy Adams rather than John D. Long. F. A. C.

HARD TO BELIEVE. Rev. A. J. Rich of Fall River, while cutting wood with a hatchet a few days ago, accidentally cut off his left thumb at the roots of the nail. Not finding the piece cut off at once he went into the house, tied up the thumb, and finished the work of chopping wood. About noon he found later he found the amputated end of his thumb, carefully placed it upon the spot from which it came, and, strange to say, it has stuck firmly to its old associate, and has every appearance of healing and doing good service hereafter.

FOR TAKING GRAVEL. On Thursday morning Officer Lancelotti of Quincy, arrested Captain Joseph Dunn of the sloop Shawmut, of Boston, at North Weymouth, for appropriating gravel, valued at $10, from the premises of Mr. Joseph Adams. He was arraigned before the District Court, and finally discharged on payment of costs.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.
FROM THE SON: "On Cedar St., New York, Oct. 25, 1882.
Gentlemen: My father resides at Oliver, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the inclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about three years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Yours truly,
W. M. Phillips.

FROM THE FATHER:

It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a scrofulous humor, and suffered from it for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about three years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly,

A Wayside Parable.

A lonely rock by the wayside,
All jagged and stained and rent;
Yet over its brow the daisies
Their pure bright faces bent;
From golden daisies on slender stems
And fairy trumpets blew;
From every crevice tale of fennel
And feathery grasses grew;
Till gone were the outlines sharp and bare
That might offend the eye,
And the wayside rock was a charming sight,
To every passer by.

Hear heart, kindred and lonely,
Though scattered life's hopes may be,
The Lord was once a wayside rock,
Much more shall care for thee.
Thy deeds of tenderness, words of love,
Like flowers may spring and twine,
Till joy shall come into others' lives
From the very rents in thine.

Packing Apples for Market.

The fruit growers of Nova Scotia have shown skill and success in packing apples for market, and one of the best orchardists of that country has, in substance, the following account of his management: He takes the barrels under the trees for convenience, carefully picks and places the fruit in barrels without assorting, and when full heads without pressure. They are then wheeled to the fruit house, where they remain till time of shipment. The barrels are then emptied on a large and broad table, two at a time. The assorting can be better made on this table than in any other way, and the good or perfect fruit is separated into two classes, marked as "choice" and "medium." When the barrels are filled, the head is not set in at once, but with a cushion-head which will place loosely in the barrel, and which has been properly lined, considerable pressure is given without injuring the apples, bringing them more closely together throughout the barrel. The false head is then removed and the permanent head applied with sufficient pressure to hold them solidly together without rattling. For the best success, each barrel is to be marked with the owner's name in full, as a guarantee of the excellence and uniformity of the package throughout. When that name becomes known to purchasers he will have no difficulty in selling at good prices, even in abundant years.—Free Press.

DRYING APPLES.

The old method of drying apples in the sun is fast going out of date, and the new method of drying by artificial heat is fast taking its place. The quality of the fruit thus artificially dried is so much better than that dried in the old way, that it will have the advantage of the old process will be abandoned for the new, and will also cause a much larger amount of dried fruit to be consumed.

There are many thousands of bushels of fruit that are now fed to cattle, or made into cider, but by the new process could be dried and made to pay better than they now do, besides furnishing labor to a class who have to work at very low wages, and who are often, from want of work compelled to be idle.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

BORERS.

The fall examination for borers in apple, peach and quince trees, should be made at once. In making this examination the earth should be scraped away from the trunk of the tree down several inches, and with a knife the bark should be carefully scraped down as far as the roots, thus bringing to sight any indications of worms, even though very small; wherever one is discovered it should be taken out with the point of a knife. When the tree is freed from worms fresh earth should be placed around the tree up several inches above the surrounding surface.

When making a layer cake with chocolate and coconut filling, the quantity of each depends on your taste. If you use a great deal of the chocolate you will have a rich cake, and if you use a little you will have a light cake. The fact should be borne in mind. Only enough chocolate should be used to color it a light brown and to give a delicate flavor.

IVY POISON.

If any person who is liable to poison with ivy will take pure olive oil after being exposed to it, he will feel no bad effects; and the oil will neutralize the virus of the poison if a few doses be taken even after the poison has broken out.

APPLE PICKING.

Put in a baking pan, tart, juicy apples, pared and cored. Pour over them, rice cooked in milk, enough to fill the pan, cover with a plate and bake. Serve with syrup, or cream and sugar.

GRAPE PICKLES.

Fill a jar with estimated layers of grapes and sugar, and cover with cold vinegar.

Conundrums.

What is better than a promising young man?—A paying one.

What is the difference between a hill and a pill?—One is hard to go up and the other is hard to go down.

Why is an island like the letter T?—It is in the midst of water.

What divine law did the whale follow when he swallowed Jonah?—He was a stranger, and he took him in.

Why is whispering a breach of good manners?—It is not allowed (allowed).

This and That.

A Pennsylvania judge has sent a woman to prison for stealing $5 from her husband's pocket-book.

A late book is entitled "A Half-hour with insects." What a lively half-hour one can have with a bee!

Concise is to nature what paint is to beauty; it is not only needless, but it impairs what it would improve.

The long blue and white frocks worn by the butchers are now known as "Father Hubbard's." Fred and Sweetener wear them.

A person is never sick. If you think you are sick, you will feel sick; but you are not. Patient—And if you think I say you, you get the money; but then you don't. Oh, yes, I understand. It is very simple, delightfully simple.

Experience keeps a dear school; but fools will learn in no other, and scarce in that; for it is true we may give advice, but we cannot give conduct. However, they that will not be counselled cannot be helped, and if you will not hear reason she will surely rap your knuckles.

The Brooklyn Chronicle sensibly says that "Newspapers, though everybody does not seem to think so, are always paid for in advance. If the thoughtful subscriber doesn't do it, the proprietor has to do so. The paper and ink manufacturers, the compositors and the pressmen will not wait a year, or perhaps half a dozen years, before they get their pay. The subscriber in arrears should think of this."

Temperance.

The Nation's "Drink" Bill.

"To state with mathematical accuracy either the amount or the cost of the liquor drunk in the United States in a twelvemonth is impossible; yet, it is possible to make estimates which may be regarded as practically correct. Upon such estimates this table is constructed. The method by which these results have been reached is simple.

In the year 1883 (ending June 30) the government received as the internal revenue on distilled spirits $174,368,775. The tax on each gallon of distilled liquor is 90 cents. The quantity, therefore, of liquor thus taxed amounted to no less than 22,631,272 gallons. The crucial point relative to this quantity is its cost to its consumer.

A certain proportion of it was employed in mechanical and scientific uses. The larger proportion of it was whiskey and brandy—liquors which formed the principal part of the beverage."

Erratum—The second paragraph in last week's temperance article should have read, "If it is true," instead of "It is true, etc."

Household Receipts.

TOMATO FIGS. Make a rich syrup of sugar, as for preserves, flavor with four ounces of extra refined butter, and pour into the kettle as you can; boil slowly fifteen minutes, remove carefully from the syrup, so as not to break them, place separately on shallow dishes and put in the hot sun. Continue to add other small quantities of sugar as you wish. If the sugar becomes weak, add more sugar. Dry the tomatoes a few days, roll in white sugar, pack in jars or boxes, sprinkling sugar between the layers.

GRAPE JELLY.

Strip from the stalk some fine, ripe, black grapes, stir them with a wooden spoon over a gentle fire until all have burst and the juice has run freely from them; strain off, and pour your guard that no pressure is applied to the bag; pass it through and through the bag until quite clear; simmer gently for twenty minutes, when draw it from the fire and stir in until well dissolved. When that name becomes known to purchasers he will have no difficulty in selling at good prices, even in abundant years.—Free Press.

APPLE DUMPLING (Baked).

Pare and core apples. Make a paste as for pies; cut out round with a pie-cutter and cover each apple separately. Bake in a pan of water.

APPLE DUMPLING (Steamed).

One egg, one cup of sweet milk, two cups of flour, one teaspoonful of cream tartar, salt; butter, four cups; pour in some of the batter. Then put in the apple, cover with the batter and steam twenty minutes.

PEACH BUTTER.

Make a nice smooth butter of flour and sweet milk, add eggs and salt to taste. Peel and cut the peaches in halves, removing the stones, of course; dip the pieces of peach in the batter, and fry in hot lard. It will take about ten minutes to fry them properly. Then place them on a very hot plate, scatter powdered sugar over them and send to the table hot.

When making a layer cake with chocolate and coconut filling, the quantity of each depends on your taste. If you use a great deal of the chocolate you will have a rich cake, and if you use a little you will have a light cake. The fact should be borne in mind. Poetry.
Music in a Mother's Voice.
There's music in a mother's voice,
More sweet than sweetest singing;
There's kindness in a mother's glance,
Too pure for sweetest thing.

There's love in a mother's heart,
No deeper than the heart of heaven;
And for her child is praying,
That so the heart of pity move,
To surely keep from weeping.

And when a mother looks to heaven,
And for her child is praying,
That so the heart of pity move,
To surely keep from weeping.

And when a mother looks to heaven,
And for her child is praying,
That so the heart of pity move,
To surely keep from weeping.

And when a mother looks to heaven,
And for her child is praying,
That so the heart of pity move,
To surely keep from weeping.

And when a mother looks to heaven,
And for her child is praying,
That so the heart of pity move,
To surely keep from weeping.

And when a mother looks to heaven,
And for her child is praying,
That so the heart of pity move,
To surely keep from weeping.

And when a mother looks to heaven,
And for her child is praying,
That so the heart of pity move,
To surely keep from weeping.

best to pass a law that no political influence shall drive a hard working girl from her place, to make room for an overworked woman who wants to earn a little more pin money—
"Croesus!"

"Wouldn't it be a good idea, mamma?"
"But I must sit down, and count, the money I have left of this month's salary. I am not by any means sure that I have enough to take us to Dakota—unless indeed we were to sell the old pearl brooch that belonged to your mother. And I've a sort of fancy that luck would desert us if we parted with that old pearl brooch."

Later in the afternoon, Croesus Graham put on the pink moss-rose gown, with a pretty little hat of rose colored crapes, which she had herself made, and crept out under the shadow of the great lime trees in the capitol grounds to hear the band play.

"The world was there—the better of the great city, the fashionable, the notable. Elegant carriages blocked up the drives; rainbow groups studied the lawns; and almost the first thing which Croesus saw was the tall figure of the twenty-fifth auditor, standing beside Senator Stalcup's carriage, while the rubicund personage gesticulated vehemently, and Mrs. Altamont leaned smilingly forward, beneath the golden shadow of her amber-lined parasol.

"My cousin must be provided for, don't you see?" said the senator. "And they tell me that your department is the pleasantest place in the Treasury Building; and if there isn't any vacancy just now, why, you must make one! Nothing can be easier, I am sure."

"You think so?" said the twenty-fifth auditor, who was a tall man, with Indian-dar hair and eyes, and a Napoleon confirmation of brow.

"Think so, man? I know it!" said the senator. "Rotation in office is the only safe rule. Keep the wheel turning—make matters lively!"

"Just then the line of carriages began to move slowly on."

"The auditor stepped back, Mrs. Altamont waved her cream-gloved hand, and the rosette confirmation of Senator Stalcup was waived from view."

As the auditor turned into a path sweet with roses and shadowed with the great city, the fashionable, the notable, he came face to face with Croesus, sitting on the bench of twisted cedar-boughs.

"Mr. Harrington!" she

The Election in Quincy.

Quincy in common with the whole country east of Tuesday her vote for presidential electors. The polls were opened at 7:30 A. M. when it was voted to keep them open until 4 o'clock. Mr. Edwin W. Marsh and Mr. H. A. Keith had previously been appointed supervisors by the Governor, and they were on hand and superintended the balloting and counting of the votes. The first vote in the new box was cast by Mr. Dexter Faxon, and from that time until the close of the polls there was an almost continuous line of voters. The new ballot box required by the State was used for the first time, and while there were a few "misses" at the start, Mr. Elias A. Perkins soon mastered it and its work was done very fairly. In spite of printed notices on the walls, but few who came to the polls placed their ballots in the box properly, they being in many cases folded and sometimes placed face up instead of down as required; all making extra work for those in charge.

There were several tickets in the field. Besides the Regular Republican, the Regular Democratic and the Prohibition tickets, there were two People's Party tickets differing only in Representatives, two Workingmen's Independent tickets, both having on the Republican electors, the Democratic State ticket, and otherwise Republican except one Representative; also a Temperance-Republican ticket, with St. John electors, Seelye and Faxon, at the head of the State ticket, and otherwise Republican.

Both of the leading parties claimed the town by small pluralities, and the result, 929 for Cleveland and 917 for Blaine shows how close the contest was. On previous national elections since the formation of the Republican party this town has always stood in the Republican column, though often by small majorities, as in 1876 when Hayes was but ahead of Tilden.

While the Democrats were successful in their National ticket the Republicans are joyful because their State ticket was successful here by a plurality of from one to two hundred.

The Independent also came in with the Democrats for a share of the glory in the plurality given by Quincy for Dr. Everett over Long, but by the result in the district the latter gentleman is re-elected for another term.

Our townsman, Hon. William A. Hodges, ran ahead of all tickets in Quincy, but Mr. Ames, the Republican candidate, was the choice of the district.

As regards the Representatives to the next General Court, the honors are divided between the two leading parties, the Republicans securing two and the Democrats one. The delegation last year was three Democrats. The votes for Representative were more split and varied than for any other office, and there seemed to be a considerable personal feeling in the matter. The polls closed at four o'clock, but it was not until after seven that the result was declared, being some later than usual. Both parties thought that 2,200 votes would be cast, but the total was only 2,069, being 130 less than was cast in the exciting election of last year. The entire vote will be found in another column.

ROBERTY. On election night Mr. P. N. Ferron, proprietor of the Water street bakery, came from Boston on the late train, and getting off at the Quincy station, started for his home on Water street.

He says he was followed from the Robertson House by a party of young roughs, and that when on School street he was attacked by three of the number, who threw him to the ground, and during the tussle which followed succeeded in taking his pocket-book containing over $250. Not satisfied with taking the money they jumped upon and kicked their victim about the head and back, inflicting several flesh wounds.

Mr. Ferron escaped from his assailants only to run into four confederates who were near by, but he finally made his escape and notified officers Farrand and Langley. As yet no clue has been obtained as to who the parties were.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD. During the first four days in November, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, there were sold at the Quincy station tickets for Boston as follows: regular 1067, half 76, ten-trip 181. During the same time 200 tickets were sold to Neponset; the greater number probably going for "refreshments." Round trip tickets were issued on Monday night and 400 were sold.

THE FREIGHT BUSINESS. At the Quincy station during the month of October amounted to $3000, while the revenue from tickets was $234.13.

UNIVERSALIST SOCIAL. People were so excited by election returns that but a modest attendance was given the pleasant social of Wednesday evening at the Universalist vestry. However, those who came expressed much satisfaction. Miss Clara P. French and Miss Leila A. Robinson fully met the expectations of their friends and easily made for themselves a place among public readers. Mr. Sawyer was in fine voice and sang with expression and power, to the careful accompaniment of Mrs. Sawyer. The financial success was also satisfactory.

TOWN FUND. On Saturday last the Faxon fountain in the park of the old office was removed and a new wooden pump and the old stone trough put in its place. The fountain has been put in position at the junction of Hancock and Washington streets, and the water is running. The water will run into the reservoir near by, and the overflow from this will run into the pipe formerly connected with the steam pump.

THE GYPSY'S PROPHECY. The Clan McGregor Amateur Club will produce the Scottish drama, entitled, "Guy Mannering or the Gypsy's Prophecy," at the Town Hall, Quincy, on the evening of Nov. 9, 1884. At the close of the drama dancing will be in order to 3 A. M. For more full particulars see notice in another column.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE. A free public women's suffrage meeting is to be held this evening at Wollaston, under the auspices of the Woman's Suffrage Association. Mr. E. E. Williamson will preside and the prominent ladies are expected to address the meeting.

Quincy Point Items.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Wilson Tisdale since he became proprietor of the Point Line has given the people good, and probably better accommodations than ever before, and has seemed to study the comfort of his passengers much, but this season is somewhat late in putting on his close barges, and has thereby caused at least one person considerable suffering.

Mr. J. W. Faxon, who has been in the line of his eyes, which had kept him at home three or four days, but getting better he went as usual to the city, and on his return rode down in one of the open barges and took a severe cold, which has almost blinded him, and he has been confined to the house for ten days.

Miss Amy F. Newcomb has returned home from a fortnight's visit to Milford, N. H.

Mr. Z. H. Sidelinger is spending election week at home.

Mr. Walter S. Redding and family have returned to Malden for the winter, and the Worcester house is once more closed.

The Point people are much pleased in the election of Mr. H. M. Faxon as representative to the General Court, and think he is the right man for the place.

Mr. Edward Fobes had recently considerable trouble with a swollen face, and thinking it proceeded from his teeth went to a dentist, who told him that necrosis of a portion of the jaw bone had taken place. He had five teeth drawn, and as soon as expedient will have an operation performed, and the diseased part removed.

Rev. J. L. Harris preached an excellent sermon on Sunday evening last, on the parable of the rich man and Lazarus.

The Ladies Aid Society held its first social of the season on Thursday evening. A small number were present and as the committee on entertainment failed to prepare any programme, but little pleasure was derived from the evening. If these societies are to be held during the winter, they should be taken hold of in a business like manner and made a success, otherwise it would be best to give them up entirely.

One of our Neck residents who has been a strong Cleveland man during the campaign, attended the grand democratic rally on Monday night at the Coliseum and returned home disgusted with the audience which he drew, and went to the polls on Tuesday and voted for Jas. G. Blaine.

SHIPPING.

Arrived Nov. 4th, Schooner Hiram, Capt. Hubbard, from Calais, Maine, with 80,000 ft. lumber for Benj. Johnson.

Arrived Nov. 6th, Schooner Ruth Shaw, Capt. Carlow, from Philadelphia, with 500 tons coal for J. Shepard & Sons.

WEST QUINCY.

The coffee party held by the Granite House Company on Monday evening was a grand success, being largely attended, and a very enjoyable time.

The M. E. Church will give an entertainment on Tuesday evening next. Distinguished talent from Boston and Quincy has been engaged, and the concert is expected to be one of the best.

Since the winter arrangement of trains went into effect West Quincy has a late train from Boston every Thursday evening.

The meetings of the Apollo Club held every Tuesday evening at the Willard Schoolhouse are quite interesting.

On Monday and Tuesday evenings the Old Colony Railroad ran the late train from Boston to Plymouth, thus allowing a large number of the citizens to witness the grand torchlight procession of the Republicans, and to hear the election returns. The train arrived at West Quincy about two A. M. on each night.

The Thursday evening societies of the M. E. Church are quite attractive and enjoyable.

PATRIOTS are always for sale at the store of E. H. Doble & Co.

The all absorbing talk of the week has of course been the result of the election. But it seems a difficult combination. Even the youngsters are imbued with politics. We overheard one to say that his father had bet a silk bag on the election of Cleveland, and that if he should win he was going to let his chin moustache grow.

Atlantic News.

Work on the cellar of the new church has seemingly progressed slowly this week.

Who's President? seems to be the question of the day in this part of the town.

Mr. C. A. Rice has sold his milk run to Mr. B. Frank Hodgkinson, of Germantown.

The grocery and provision store under the name of Redman & Coombs, has changed hands a little; the firm now being Redman & Luce.

The workmen employed in the sewer have nearly all been discharged, and the work is practically completed for a few years at least.

During the last twelve years six houses and two barns have been burned at Atlantic.

The people of Atlantic have been very kind to Mr. Price and family, who were burnt out last week, and lost nearly everything. They now occupy a house near Granite bridge.

EVERY VARIETY OF PRINTING made promptly and accurately executed, at the very lowest cash prices, at the

PATRIOT OFFICE

Among the Granite Dealers.

Most of the granite dealers in Quincy appear to have a good amount of work. A fine statue of Hope, modelled by Mr. F. M. Mearns, completed at the yard of McDougal Bros. last week, has been shipped.

Chas. H. Hitchcock are enlarging their quarry on one side, and have built an elevated railroad for carrying away the granite.

McLennan, whose polishing sheds were almost destroyed by fire recently, do not seem to be in a hurry to begin work again, but rumor says they are to be rebuilt.

Granite polishers complain that the low price at which steam polishing is now done is ruinous to the business. What was formerly done for four or five dollars years ago, is now done for less than a dollar, because of the sharp competition.

In Harper's Weekly this week may be seen three bronze reliefs, illustrative of the battle of Moundmoot, for the Moundmoot battle monument which was unveiled at Freehold, N. J., this week, and which was carved by Fred. S. Field of this town, and was described in the PATRIOT July 19.

The Old Colony have laid out for a track to run into the yard of Mr. Wm. C. Townsend. The firm is to extend its tramway sixty-five feet toward the railroad, and make other improvements. Sixty men are now employed. There is some talk of building another shed in the spring. In no sheds in town do the workmen have more comfortable quarters.

Ferni Bros. are engaged at McDougal Bros. in cutting four statues; two between five and six feet in height, representing Faith and Charity, are nearly completed. The others are in a seated position and represent Charity and Memory. They were modelled by Mr. F. Mearns, and are for a monument to be erected by a Mr. Wolff at Mansfield, Ohio.

Henry Barker & Sons have this week opened the quarry abandoned by them about twelve years ago, because they then did not have facilities for raising the heavy stones, there being then no steam engines in the quarries. They have now secured another engine and built an additional engine house near the quarry, to be in charge of Mr. Geo. Harris. The quarry to be reopened is over sixty feet deep. The firm has also built a new blacksmith's shop near their office, and have torn down the old one which would have been in the way of the proposed widening of Quarry street.

The following description of the Soldiers' Monument at Waterbury, Ct., is from the State Gazette.

The monument is of Quincy granite with figures and groups in bronze upon it. The sculpture was done in Paris by the famous sculptor, George E. Bissell. The height of the monument is fifty feet. On the sub-base are two bronze tablets with allegorical sketches, and two tablets appropriately engraved to the memory of 500 soldiers and sailors who went from the town. On the base are four groups, one on each side, of bronze, representing the call to arms, the response, the victorious veterans at the graves of their comrades, and one of peace, where a woman is teaching the children of the freedmen with broken shackles at their feet. The whole is surmounted with a bronze statue of a woman eleven feet high, holding a laurel wreath toward the north and an olive branch toward the south, while harvest fruits are gathered about her feet. Eminent critics declare it one of the finest monuments in the country. It cost over $30,000, and is from the granite works of Messrs. Frederick & Field, of Quincy.

Grand Concert.

The Levy Concert Company are to give one of their fine concerts at Robertson Hall, on Saturday evening. Their fine array of talent we have no doubt will be highly appreciated by all lovers of music, and it is hoped that the company will be greeted with a crowd of house, as we are assured that a rare treat is in store for our citizens. Mr. Jules Levy, as a cornetist is incomparable, and always carries off great honors. He is a concert in himself, and those listening to his playing are completely carried away with the rich and delicious sweetness of his artistic music. The New Orleans Times-Democrat of May 19th, in speaking of Mr. Levy's skillful performance, says: "Everybody was anxious to drink in every note and enjoy every phrase of the delicious melody. With rich full notes he commenced the plaintive strains growing in pathos as he proceeded until the concert was forgotten, and one seemed to be listening to the sweet voice of a prima donna."

Mr. Constantine Sternberg, as a pianist it is said needs no praise. The power and delicacy combined in his masterful touch reveals a performer of rare and superior judgment. The singing by Miss Lida Hove Talbot is rendered in the highest style of art. She has a fine stage presence, a handsome face and figure, and a voice full of rich melody capable of expressing every phase of feeling.

The rendering of the descriptive ballad "Waiting" by Miss Stella Coster, who as a concert singer is unrivalled, will be one of the principal features in this grand musical entertainment. Mr. Edward J. O'Mahony, who possesses a rich bass voice, and has made a favorable impression upon critical and cultivated audiences, and it is said his singing shows an admirable method, clear enunciation and rare musical intelligence.

The programme offered for this evening's entertainment is of the highest order. This company have been invited to visit Quincy, and all lovers of fine music should avail themselves of this opportunity to enjoy a rich treat which is hardly to be found outside of the great cities.

For full particulars our readers are invited to read the advertisement carefully.

SENIOR PARTY. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall P. Nye, who have recently moved from South Boston to Quincy, were agreeably surprised at their residence on Coddington street by twenty or more members of the Quincy Colony Polymath Fathers of South Boston, on Wednesday evening last, and presented with an elegant dinner set of over one hundred pieces.

The evening was pleasantly spent in singing by the quartette of the Colony, speeches, collation, etc., and the party returned to Boston on a late train, leaving heavy good wishes for the host and hostess.

The Village Improvement Society have planted several young trees on Washington street the past week.

Mr. W. W. Thomas has recently set out several trees on the sidewalk in front of his residence on Granite street.

The Selectmen are making improvements at the Quincy House; several trees have been set out and a fence built.

The Coliseum has been painted during the past week. The delay in the arrival of the flooring is to be regretted.

Clan McGregor amateur dramatic club will render Guy Rattner at the Town Hall, on Wednesday the 26th inst.

It will be seen that the Ladies' Universalist Association presents an unusual attraction for the Social next Wednesday evening.

It will be a year next Tuesday since the standard time went into effect. Many of our granite firms still work by the "old time."

Miss Ellen Nightingale, who for the past few weeks, has been very seriously sick with neuralgia, still remains in a precarious condition.

Owing to an unexpected delay Mrs. A. M. Hillyer will be unable to deliver the ball of poems of the late F. M. Addison for the present.

The stockholders of the Old Colony Railroad held their annual meeting at the United States Hotel, Boston, on Tuesday the 26th inst.

E. F. E. Thayer will sell on Wednesday next about twelve acres of land with wood standing on the same, on West street in Braintree.

Joseph W. Lombard will sell a dwelling house and sixteen hundred feet of land, on West street, West Quincy, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Faxon fountain is now in position, and ready to supply the wants of the thirsty man and beast. The approach has been paved during the week.

Rev. W. C. Start delivered an excellent sermon at the Universalist Church last Sunday morning from the text: "If a man die shall he live again."

Mrs. Ozias Pope who for nearly forty years has resided on Chestnut street, has removed to River street with her daughter, Mrs. Alonzo Howland.

It is with great pleasure that we announce the improving health of Miss Nellie Coolidge, who for many weeks has been seriously sick with typhoid fever.

Mr. John Ethridge of Centre Sandwich, N. H., who is on his way to Pennsylvania, has been visiting his nephew in this town, Mr. Joseph P. Berry.

The meeting of Rural Lodge scheduled for this month will be a week earlier than the regular time because of Thanksgiving. It is the annual meeting.

The Surveyors of the highways have adopted the suggestion in the Patriot's short time since, and put several stone chip crossings on our principal streets.

Our teamsters will no doubt be pleased to learn that the improvements on Neponset avenue, Dorchester, have been completed, and the roads are now free from obstructions.

Mr. Simon K. Flint, who has been stopping with his parents a week or more, left Quincy last for a business tour in the West. He will be gone about two months.

Captain James Newcomb who has been working at Rockport, with his sheep nearly all summer, returned to Quincy on Saturday last. He made the trip in a little over four hours.

The Prohibitionists of Massachusetts held a social gathering in Tremont Temple yesterday afternoon, when addresses were made by Mr. Henry H. Faxon, the Rev. Dr. Miner and others.

The barn formerly on the estate of Mr. William R. Tyler, on Saville avenue has been removed by Dr. Everett to a lot on the same avenue between Mr. Saville's and Mr. Coddington's, recently bought by him.

The large squash marked "Cleveland and Hendricks," which was lately at George P. Wilson's, has been awarded to George L. Gill, he having guessed nearest to its weight 55 1/2 pounds. An employee of Mr. Wilson guessed the same weight.

Theodore Gullicksen is doing a very creditable job inside the Town Hall. It will be remembered there have been several holes in the ceiling; these have been repaired and Mr. Gullicksen has frescoed it to match the original.

Mr. and Mrs. William Amory Jr., have left their beautiful summer residence, "Seven Oaks," where they so royally entertained many of the poor children from charitable institutions during the warm days of summer. They have gone to New York to pass the winter. May the happiness they have so freely bestowed on others be returned to them ten fold.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The members of the Ladies' Social Circle, and friends connected with the First Baptist Society met on Wednesday evening for the purpose of discussing plans, and arranging for social and literary entertainments for the coming winter season. The programme agreed upon was to hold one in two weeks, a social gathering, at the house of the General Ladies, and a social and literary entertainment in the vestry of the Baptist Chapel alternately. The first, a social gathering will meet with Mrs. M. A. Marks next Wednesday evening, 19th inst., and two weeks from date an entertainment will be given in the vestry. Although the society is small, and perhaps from that very fact nearly everyone is interested and ready and willing to do his part, which makes the work light and the enjoyment great.

A Sabbath School concert was held last Sunday evening which passed off in a very satisfactory manner. Superintendent M. A. Marks takes a great interest in the school, where he is not only a teacher but is deserving of much praise for the flourishing condition of the same.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Harvey Brown of East Braintree, formerly a resident of this place is supposed to have been drowned on Sunday last in Weymouth River. He left home on an errand to North Weymouth, and paddled across in a punt. On his return he is supposed to have been upset as the boat was found bottom side up on the river on Monday morning by Mr. J. Warren Hayden, near his house. Mr. Brown was 38 years of age, a painter by trade, and had been employed for the past few years by Mr. George H. Hersey of Weymouth. He leaves a widow and two children who have the sympathy of many people.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Phillips at the Neck were surprised on Saturday last by their children, grandchildren and friends to the number of twenty-five, the event being the fifty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. Five years ago they celebrated their golden wedding, and as it is so unusual for a couple to remain in health and be active so many years it was thought that this day should not pass without more than common notice. They were presented by their children with a handsome hanging lamp beside numerous small gifts. A thoroughly good time was enjoyed by all present. The elderly couple did fair to see many more years of happiness and usefulness.

At the Washington street Congregational Church on Sunday morning last, the pastor, Rev. J. L. Harris, preached a sermon on "Foreign Missions," after which the yearly collection was taken for the same. An offering was made to form a branch league of the church with Rev. E. H. Norton of Quincy, who preached an excellent sermon from the text: "The eternal God is thy refuge," which was listened to with close attention by all. Mr. Norton is well known among us and is always welcomed by Point congregations.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton Hall and son have returned to the Point for the winter, having spent a delightful summer at Marshfield.

Mr. G. W. Night and family, for many years West residents, have this week moved to Brockton. Mr. Night has been employed as clerk for the last twelve years by Mr. S. Frank Newcomb, and his face will be missed by many customers, who are sorry to know that his health is somewhat impaired. He expects to be benefited by the change.

Mr. Eben Adams and Mr. George L. Phillips are having their houses painted and when the work is completed it will be a great improvement to both estates.

The seat on Mr. Perry's coal cart was kicked off by his mule—where is Frank? One man offers to bet that if he can kick the vane off the spire.

E. M. F.

FIRE DEPARTMENT. Tirrell & Sons have this week completed the hose wagon, No. 3, for the west part of the town. It is a fine wagon well built, weighing about 1000 pounds, and will cost all equipped $225.

A similar wagon to the above is nearly completed, it being now in the paint shop, for the hose company at Wollaston.

The hose carriage at the steamer house, which weighs 3680 without any men on it, is soon to be replaced by a much lighter one, but the committee are short of appropriations. Tirrell & Sons are to build it.

Culture engine, No. 4, has been sold to Westboro.

QUINCY STATION. A. G. Coffin, the agent of the Old Colony Railroad at the Quincy station, has received notice from the company that a fence is to be erected on the westerly line of the Company's land at this station. This will oblige all those who wish to visit the park to use the crossing at the north of the station, and to insure their safety a flagman has been stationed there. A gateman's shanty is to be built. When the rink was first projected, it was intended to lay out the grounds on the westerly side of the track, but the Old Colony seems to have changed its mind.

SOCIAL CLUB. This club, which has been connected with the Unitarian Society for several years, met on Friday evening of last week and reorganized for the winter, under very favorable conditions. Mr. George G. Saville was elected president, Mrs. Wilson, Secretary and Mr. Horace F. Spear, Treasurer. The executive committee is constituted of the above and the following: Mrs. G. A. Aldrich, Mrs. James Stetson, Miss Lucy Spear, Miss Carrie Cross, Henry L. Southern, Frank Glover, Geo. B. Dewson. The first entertainment or dance will probably be held about the first of December.

The supporters of Cleveland and Hendricks are to have a great time in Quincy if their candidates are elected. There seems to be little doubt as to the result, but at a meeting of the executive committee Wednesday evening, it was agreed to wait until the official returns are in before taking decisive action. It will probably come off some evening the coming week.

We were greatly at error last week in stating that the revenue from tickets at the Quincy station during the week of last week was $234. That was only the amount from excursion tickets. We should have said it was $247.78.

Wollaston.

The Cleveland men tried to paint the village red on Wednesday evening.

Several of them bearing torches and headed by drums marched through nearly every street, and many citizens illuminated their residences and burned colored lights. Among the noticeable ones were J. G. Merrill, Chas. T. Baker, Watson Brasse, A. B. Hayward, C. W. Jones, M. R. Sparrow, J. G. W. Wilson, J. Marshall, George R. Prescott, Walter E. Simmons, W. J. Wellington, J. G. Badger, W. L. Whittemore, Samuel J. King, Seth Bryant and W. F. Lakin. In place of the Cleveland flag over Newport avenue were placed half a hundred Chinese lanterns.

Rev. Mr. Lord's house that gentleman entertained those assembled with a five minutes' speech. All in all a successful time for the Cleveland men.

Hon. Charles W. Slack lectured in the Methodist Church, Dedham, Thursday evening, on "Josiah Quincy and his times."

Following so soon in the wake of the great national struggle, when most people had heard enough of politics and what pertains thereto, the friends of Woman's Suffrage felt encouraged by the interest and attention shown at a meeting held at Wollaston Hall on Saturday evening last, under the direction of the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association.

Mr. E. E. Williamson called the meeting to order, and after a few remarks introduced Cora Scott Pond of Boston, who for an hour entertained and instructed her audience on the subject. How the franchise had gradually been extended from ancient times; how in this country it had spread first from the members of the church to property holders of large estates, then to all property holders, then to all voters, and finally to men of whatever color; and now she could see no reason why it should not be extended to women. She cited instances in some of our western States where women could vote, in Wyoming where they were on an equal footing with men, and how they always exercised the ballot for the right.

Miss Matilda Hindman of Pittsburg, Penn., was next introduced, and she elicited many of the points made by her predecessor. She said it was right for men to say they did not think many women cared to vote, but to place the ballot in their hands. That the colored people in the Southern States did not ask to vote, but the privilege had been given them.

Both of the ladies were able speakers, and seemed to thoroughly understand their subject. They wished their friends to use their influence with the Representatives to the General Court. A collection realized enough to pay for the hall. An effort will shortly be made to form a branch league of the Suffrage Association in Wollaston.

South Quincy.

The south part of the town, especially in the vicinity of the Quincy Adams station, continues to grow very rapidly. Two years ago there was scarcely a house south of Water street on what was then the Adams farm.

Now there are fifteen single houses and eleven double houses, besides others in the process of erection. Mr. Jonas Shackley is erecting a house at the junction of Penn and Liberty streets for Mr. Alexander Marnock. Mr. Edward Leonard is building a house of Liberty. Mr. Glennon is about to commence to build. Cellars for houses are being walled off.

A double house was walled off by Mr. E. H. Norton, another double for Mr. John Denton and a single for Mr. Dalley. On Water street, west of the Old Colony Railroad, Mr. Alphonse Bishop has nearly completed a double house for Mr. James Kelley and Mr. Patrick McDonnell's large house is nearly ready for occupancy.

Mr. Charles H. Spear is getting ready to flood the meadow near his ice-house, so he may gather his usual large supply of ice.

A great change has been made in the store at the corner of Franklin and Water streets since Mr. Doble took it in charge. On all sides we hear words of praise for the neatness of the store and the business enterprise and push of the young merchant.

The teamsters and others from the south part of the town who have occasion to go to the Point, think the new road from Quincy to the South street much nearer and a great improvement, and only wonder why it was not made before.

A gentleman on Wednesday caught one of those highly perfumed animals in the cellar, having mistaken it for a little black and white cat with a bushy tail. We will mention no names.

District Court, Quincy.

John Larkin and Michael Cotter, pleaders guilty to being tramps, were sent to the State Workhouse for six months.

Edward Brophy of Milton, for being drunk, was fined $1 and costs.

The jurors taken from Catherine A. Hassett of Weymouth, were ordered to be forfeited.

John Coley of Weymouth, for drunkenness, was sent to the House of Correction.

"Five cents a bag."

Many anticipate a dull winter for work.

Where are those trees the Village Improvement Society were to set out in this vicinity?

The M. E. Church are to give a course of six lectures and entertainments at their church, to commence, we believe, next Wednesday evening.

Mr. John Gashin is putting in this week a windmill, with which to supply his houses on Cross street with water. He believes he can do it much cheaper than the Water Company are willing to do it.

The entertainment given at the M. E. Church, West Quincy, last Tuesday evening passed off with success. It commenced by an overture on the organ by Prof. Frost of Boston; Little Florence pleased the audience and was well appreciated. The readings by Misses McCormack, Armstrong and Bishop of Boston, were finely rendered and heartily applauded, as was also Miss Carrie Spear of Quincy in her fine songs. Mr. William Wilson of Quincy favored the audience by his fine well chosen selections on the organ, which well deserved the applause he received. Much credit is due Mr. Folsom for the pleasing manner in which he conducted the exercises.

At the annual meeting of the St. Mary's C. T. A. and M. R. Society, the following officers were appointed for the ensuing year:

President—John A. O'Brien.

Vice-President—Thomas D. McGrath.

Financial Secretary—Richard Walsh.

Recording Secretary—Thomas McNeill.

Treasurer—John J. Phelan.

Directors—William T. Shea, Chairman; John E. Burns, Francis J. Harverhan, James R. Hussey, William H. Murray.

ODD FELLOWS. On Monday evening Mr. Wollaston Lodge of Quincy paid a fraternal visit to Neponset Lodge No. 84, of Neponset. The delegation numbered between forty and fifty and left Quincy by the 7.19 train. They received a warm welcome from their hosts, and after a short stay at the hotel, there were several other visiting brothers present, including the District Deputy John C. Poole, P. G., of Bethesda Lodge, South Boston. The District Deputy of Mr. Wollaston Lodge, Chas. B. Newton, P. G., was also present, and as entertaining as usual. S. B. Hildreth, P. G., of Neponset Lodge, and one of its oldest members, read a history of his lodge, telling how it had battled with the hard times of years ago, and was now in a flourishing condition. Remarks of an interesting nature were made by N. G. V. G. Secretary and others of Mr. Wollaston Lodge, and by the District Deputies, the other visitors and members of Neponset Lodge, but perhaps none was more satisfactory than that which appealed to the inner man, "the fifth degree." It was well worked, and the after-supper speeches kept the round of pleasure until the late outward train came along and brought the delegation home.

PERSONAL. From the last issue of the Woman's Journal we learn that "A large attended meeting of the Woman Suffrage Club of South Boston was held in the parlors of Miss Baxter, No. 377 Broadway, on Wednesday evening the 5th inst. Mrs. A. A. Clafin, of Quincy, read a most excellent paper upon the subject of the franchise, and the services and sympathy they render in a social way. A general discussion followed, in which Mrs. Wilson of Quincy, and Mrs. Morrison of Boston, participated. A cordial vote of thanks was passed to the lecturer, Mr. James Kelley, and Mr. Patrick McDonnell's large house is nearly ready for occupancy."

Mr. Charles H. Spear is getting ready to flood the meadow near his ice-house, so he may gather his usual large supply of ice.

A great change has been made in the store at the corner of Franklin and Water streets since Mr. Doble took it in charge. On all sides we hear words of praise for the neatness of the store and the business enterprise and push of the young merchant.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs, none so tried with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting from a trifling or unseasonable exposure, is often the beginning of a fatal illness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1857 I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which I bought of my family doctor, and it cured me. I have since used it in all cases of cough, and it has never failed me. It is a most valuable remedy for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years of age, and have not had a cold since I used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL."—ROCKINGHAM, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup—A Mother's Tribute.
"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight the boy recovered. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude?"—MRS. EMMA CROSBY, 120 West 125th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and have not been able to promote its use without effect. It is a most valuable remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried."—L. A. CRANE, Lake Crystal, Minn., March 12, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. I have since used it in all cases of cough, and it has never failed me. It is a most valuable remedy for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years of age, and have not had a cold since I used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL."—ROCKINGHAM, Vt., July 15, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs, even which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

Ten Cents and a Moral.

Here is a silver dime, my son. It looks like lead, it is blackened so; I dropped it in my pocket and took it. Didn't you? Don't you think it strange? It should look like silver in a short time? Would you like to know how to change it? For the worse, in a hour or two it will be.

The dime is simply and easily told. But lay it to heart, O son of mine! See it does not a moral hold. For a bright, brave boy, with a wish to shine. I draw from my pocket a copper cent. See, there is the secret, the silver dime. Dropped in this pocket by accident. Has rubbed against copper all this time. And the cent is never a whit more white, Nor improved at all by its company. While the silver dime comes out less bright, And its value is questioned as you see. Now, the moral for boys is very clear. You see it, my son? Well, say it to heart; And see, I drop the silver here. And the copper there—let them be apart.

THE BOY'S SOLILOQUY.
Oh, yes, the moral is clear as day. But I thought I was going to get it done. He gives me the moral—that's that way. And pockets the money every time. —HARPER'S BAZAR.

Farm and Garden.

Chickens for the Market.

Many farmers have an idea that a chicken must have a large field to roam over to do well, but this is a mistake if it is desired to fatten them for the market. If they are to be kept to furnish eggs when they are young, it is better to run at large; but when they are to be fatted, it is better to confine them to a small enclosure, because it is not desirable to have a laying hen very fat; but for market a young fowl is rarely fit over two fat.

By confining a flock of chickens to a small enclosure they do not have an opportunity to run off their fat as when permitted to do so as far as they please. They soon get accustomed to their small enclosure, and will remain quiet after eating, so what they eat is not wasted by constant exercise. It is true if chickens are to be confined to a small yard they should be faithfully attended to and given all they want or they will not get as fat as when they run at large. They need a great variety of food, given in such quantities as will keep their appetite good. The secret of success in feeding any animal is in giving them just enough to supply their wants, and yet not enough to clog their appetite. While corn may be the principal food, because the cheapest, oats, barley and shorts should be fed freely, the latter in connection with the corn, potatoes or other vegetables. A small ration of meat should be given each day, and also some green vegetables, such as cabbage, grass or turnip leaves.

During the last two weeks before killing they should receive about all they will eat of corn and corn meal. While it is important to know just how to feed to the best advantage, it is quite as important to know how best to prepare the chickens for market, and have them look well. More than half the chickens that are sent to market are sold from one to two cents a pound less because they have been improperly dressed. Many to save time dip them into boiling water, and thus greatly injure the look of the skin by blistering it. Those who best understand how to dress a chicken manage to get the feathers off in a very short time after the fowl is killed. By so doing they do it much easier than if not done until the fowl begins to cool.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

What Causes a Horse to Crib?

This was the query of W. Gates, West Salem, Wis., of the American Farmer's Club. He said: "I find a great many horses that have what is called the crib-bite. Bucking a strap around the neck will not cure, only prevents while it is on. I am anxious to find out the cause and the cure."

One member thought this cribbing of a particular kind was due to the hunger, post, or whatever the horse might prefer; while another one rose to say there was a decided difference between gnawing and crib-bite. In the former the horse simply nibbled the surface of wooden objects, iron playthings or restraints; but in the latter the object was seized with the whole breadth of the jaw and pulled. He believed that this cribbing, usually looked upon as a desire, came from some irritation of the gums or teeth of the animal, caused from something lodging in the space between the teeth, and this violent gnawing was only an effort for relief.

Anecdotes.

"Yes, sir," said the entomologist, "I can tame flies so that when I whistle they will come and alight on my head."

"Palmer!" and the half-headed man, "that's nothing. They come and alight on my head without my whistling." The entomologist said little.

"I wonder, uncle," said a little girl, "if men will ever yet live to be five hundred or a thousand years old?"

"No, my child, that was tried once, and the race grew so bad that the world had to be drowned."

"Do not buy real for dinner, today," said the mother.

"Why, my dear?"

"O, it hangs on so long and it is in spite of the second time cold."

"But, my love, you forget we are to have company to supper to-morrow night and we can't get along without chicken salad."

A little girl came from her Sunday school in a high state of excitement, because her Sunday-school teacher had told her that Jesus was a Jew.

"Was he a Jew, mother?" said she in great excitement.

"Yes, yes, my dear," said the mother, a little doubtfully, as if unwilling to concede the objectionable fact, but unable to deny it. "I suppose he was a Jew."

"But I thought he was the Son of God."

Temperance.

Furnished for publication by the W. C. T. Union.

A Clergyman to Clergymen.

"Gospel Temperance has been preached and preached with much success; but men are finding out that one of the divine laws which carries no exceptions is that the stumbling-block that man has put down, man must take up; that the Almighty does not interpose to do that which we can do ourselves; that it is worse than the mark of a moral lunacy to be forever working at the effects of temperance, while the cause of the disease remains; that all the doctors and nurses in the land cannot free human society from pestilence if fifteen score thousand sowers of deadly fever and plague are permitted to move up and down the land renewing, as dust of the whirlwind, the germs of disease and death."

We are passing that milestone, and philanthropists, putting the glass of a wise prophylactic to their eyes, are beginning to read, in plainer letters engraved upon the ultimate goal of our march, sooner or later, must find its way into every State Constitution and into the Constitution of the United States itself. If that noble instrument has not yet been touched by immortality, it shall be touched by immortality when that word blazes from the Capitol at Washington, and blazes with such a fierce light as to burn in vast conflagration every drop of intoxicants within the land; and to smite with blindness the eye of him who would put the cup to his neighbor's lips to make him drunken."

Fashion Notes.

Fur-trims are the favorite wear of children for fall dresses. There is a rage at the moment for excessively small bonnets. Striped skirts are made up with the stripes extending diagonally across the apron, but are so plaited in the back as to hide the red stripes under those of the darker color.

The new sets of braided ornaments are so made as to cover the whole front of the waist and extend around the neck and down the back.

Even cloth suits are now made with a square opening at the throat, but they have a high collar, and the space between the top of the waistcoat and the collar is filled by a cravat knot of a contrasting tint.

A simple, yet stylish dress for general wear is made with a box-pieced skirt of dark blue cloth, and between each piece is a fine Arabesque design in white silk broad work. The tunic is bordered with the same trimming.

Beils of white ottoman silk are worn with white diamond frills, and to fasten these a silver buckle is an absolute necessity.

The use of sealing wax in connection with social correspondence is becoming more and more general among young ladies.

It is prophesied that wide ribbons will be placed to narrow in the winter, and that velvet will be the favorite material.

Printed delaines in exquisite shades are made up with shot silk and trimmed with cream lace for evening dresses.

A new trimming has alternate stripes of velvet and contrasting satin. It is used for tabliers, vests, collars and cuffs.

One of the newest fashions this season is the mazarine, and it is seen in all manner of materials, China, glass and dress fabrics.

Conundrums.

Why is a knowledge of grammar desirable for a young man about to enter the Church?—It leads to acetymacy.

Why is a tattling school-girl like a mouse?—She is a tale bearer.

If Moses was the son of Pharaoh's daughter, who was the daughter of Pharaoh's son?—Moses.

Where was Peter when his candle went out?—In the dark.

Why is a tradesman like a divinity student?—He studies the profits (prophecy).

When is a ship like a half dressed woman?—When she is in stays.

This and That.
The real ruling power of the world is not position, nor age, nor wealth, nor rank, but intelligence. Wherever in the scale of humanity intelligence exists in the fullest measure, there will be the most real power. However low down it may be, it is sure to come to the top eventually; and the greater the intellect of the nation or the community, the sooner will the phenomenon appear.

It is impossible for an actress to hold the mirror up to nature without occasionally peeping around to see how her back-hair looks.

Household Receipts.

ROLLED BEEFSTEAK. Rolled beefsteak is a very good way of cooking an inferior steak. Take a round steak, beat it and spread with a dressing, such as is used for poultry. Begin at one end and roll it neatly, trying it to keep it in shape. Put it in a bake pan with a little water, and bake until the meat is tender, basting it frequently. Thicken the gravy in the pan with a little flour wet with cold water, and season it nicely, adding a little cup of sauce of some kind. Pour it around the meat. Cut it as you would a berry-roll, slicing off the ends neatly.

CREAM SAUCE. Take one pint of hot cream, one tablespoonful of butter, two of flour, a half-teaspoonful of salt and the half of a teaspoonful of pepper. Melt the butter but do not brown it, then add to it the flour; stir until well mixed, pour on the cream and let it boil until thick, stirring slowly. Lastly, add the salt and pepper. The sauce is very nice for cauliflower or other vegetables, and may be made with milk instead of cream, using a trifle more flour.

APPLE PUDDING. An excellent apple pudding can be made from the remains of a rice pudding. Arrange well sweetened and flavored apple sauce in alternate layers with cold rice pudding; add a little butter and sugar, stir sugar over the top, and put in the oven to heat through and brown on the top. Any sort of flavoring may be used for this pudding.

One of the nicest ways of constructing a wash rag is to make a flannel bag about four or five inches square, and fill it with the many ends and ends of toilet soap, which so rapidly accumulate in every household. Sew a loop of tape to one corner and hang it up by the bath tub, and you are enabled to go through the operations of the bath without any slippery cake of soap to slide out of your hands, and no soap dish to be in the way and get broken. When the bits of soap are used up open the bag and refill it.

When a crack is discovered in a stove through which the fire or smoke penetrates the aperture may be completely closed in a moment with a composition consisting of wood ashes and common salt, made up in a paste with a little water and plastered over the crack. The good effect is equally certain whether the stove is hot or cold.

If ewoman that is to be placed between the layers of cake is soaked in milk before it is mixed with the frosting, it will be improved, for its distinctive flavor will be much more apparent.

Miscellaneous.

Parrots.

A few weeks since the paper gave the story of a parrot that was kind of pickles, and to get one put his head into a jar in which sweet pickles were kept. The pickles were so far below the surface of the vinegar, that the parrot had to immerse its head in the sour liquid before it could gratify its appetite. The result was that he became a bald-headed parrot.

Occasionally some one would refer to the loss of his feathers by saying, "So you've lost your head in the sweet pickles, pol!" One day a bald-headed old gentleman, on entering the room where hung a parrot, was saluted by the bird screaming out:

"Gess you've had your head in the sweet pickles!"

Amusing as is this impudent exclamation of the parrot, it is paralleled by the sayings of three other parrots, which the present writer reports and vouches for.

The cage of a Massachusetts parrot hangs in a photographer's reception room. It is not uncommon for a lady, just as she has finished her toilet, preparatory to sitting for a picture, to be startled by the bird's impudent exclamation, "Oh, my! ain't she a daisy?"

A Hindu Jeweler who keeps a bright parrot, keeps a private school for children. At recess, the children are allowed to play in the yard, but are forbidden to go into the street. The lady is in a part of the house where she cannot see the children, and the parrot has one of them slipped out of the yard before she is at the door to call the truant back.

She knows of the disobedience through the parrot. His cage is hung by the front window, and as soon as a child wanders out to the sidewalk, the bird screams, "Children in the street! Children in the street!"

Another of these feathered talkers belongs to the town of F—, in the same State. His owner being too fond of old New England run and sometimes come home so intoxicated that not even the bird fails to notice it.

At such times Foll seems to share the family disgrace, for he screams angrily: "Shut the door! You're drunk! Shut the door! You're drunk!"

YOUTH'S COMPANION.

NO CATS. There is not a single cat within the limits of the town of Leadville, Colorado. Cats have been reported there by the hundreds, and in all varieties of color and size, but not one has ever survived the second week of residence. However, as there are no real need of cats, and no real difference whether they live or die. The thin atmosphere at that altitude (10,200) is as fatal to the vermin as to their foe, and the inhabitants are thus mercifully spared the indications of both.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

ITALIAN NO FOOL. A gang of Italian laborers near Saratoga were recently cut down ten cents a day. Instead of striking, they cut an inch off their shoes, and then they struck. The boss asked what it meant, and Baldwin's Guide reports that one of the men replied: "Not so much pay, not so much dirt left; all right, the job last the more long. Italian no fool like Irishman, he no strike."

MANY HOUSES. James Gordon Bennett has a greater number of houses awaiting his occupation than any other American. He has one in Fifth avenue and another in Fort Washington, New York city, and then his rooms at the Herald establishment are a snug place for a bachelor. His Newport villa is always in readiness, and he has also a fine establishment in Paris.

Thanksgiving Day.

This good old fashioned New England festival, which has been followed by a thousand glad associations has come again, and how many we have to be thankful for. The harvest has been a bountiful one; pestilence and war have not visited our land, and the beautiful Indian summer, with its happy loveliness, has lingered with us almost up to this festive day.

Our New England festival has come to be a national holiday, and the children who have made their homes in other states, and by reason of the great distance find it impracticable to gather at the old homestead, can assemble at their own family board with joyous emotions, knowing that even though miles intervene between them and their old homes, their dear friends are engaging in the same pleasures as themselves. There is a magic in knowing that those we love, though far distant, are in thought and action with us.

Not alone in leading the festive board with duties, should this day be observed, but there should be a feast of kindness prepared, sufficient to feed the hungry which are hanging for such food until the season shall again return, in which to replenish the supply. The deeds of one day may give cause for a year of gratitude; the reflection that we can be of benefit to our fellow beings, that from our words, deeds and examples may flow virtue and happiness, should make this day one of real joy. We should forget the cares that vex, and the perplexities that harass, and remember only the many privileges we enjoy, and the successes we have achieved. The present is with us, its rich scenes of pleasure are something to be enjoyed, and its blessings are something to be grateful for.

Thanksgiving? what a world of meaning does that name contain. It is a day of rejoicing since we gather about the family hearth, and around the old-fashioned table as in the days of our youth. There may be vacant chairs—one, perhaps, on this side and one, perhaps, on that side, but they are vacant for those who have gone on to a better life, and whose sunny smiles are more numerous than the shadowy vales. To each and all of our readers we wish a day of peace and pleasure.

Football.

An interesting game of foot ball was played between the Adams Academy Eleven and that of the Boston Latin and English High Schools on Tuesday afternoon, at the Greenleaf school territory.

Game was called at 3:30 and the Latin school had the kickoff, from which Adair secured a fair catch.

Rushing and tackling was indulged in for a considerable time when Slade of Adams secured the ball, and by a splendid rush made a touch down, from which a beautiful goal was kicked by the reliable Westland of Adams.

From this time on the game was passed to and fro until Adams were dangerously near the Adams goal, but was most of the time on the Latin school territory.

The summing up of the game, the playing of Westland and Whitman of Adams were the most noticeable features of the day; Westland being more marked for his fine rushing and kicking, while Captain Whitman in tackling which always proved to their opponents chances for scoring.

Adair deserves special mention for his splendid fair catches. Messrs Slade, Lydig, Redway and Quinlan more than distinguished themselves, especially in the cases of Slade and Lydig.

The Adams eleven won a well earned game by a score of 6-0.

Adair eleven is as follows:

Butcher, Crocker, Lydig, Brooks, (Center Back), Quinlan, Morse, Brainard and Redway, Quarter Back, Slade, Half Backs, Adair and Westland, Full Backs, Whitman, (Captain) Referee, Crane of Brookline School.

Robberies in Quincy.

Again the people are warned that they should exercise more caution against thieves, for on Saturday evening or Sunday morning four attempts at breaking and entering were made.

About eleven o'clock the rescues were discovered in the blacksmith's shop of J. R. Wild on Hancock street, but they made good their escape through a back window, taking with them only a sledge hammer and punch.

Later the grocery and provision store of J. H. Dingman was entered by the way of the bulkhead in the rear. In the office the knob to the combination lock was knocked by the hammer taken from Wild's, but that was as far as the robbers got in that direction. They helped themselves to what little cash there was in the money drawer, and to crackers and cheese. They also added coal to the fire and started it up, being bound to take things easy. The value of the property taken does not amount to much, but it will require quite a little sum to open the safe and replace the lock.

On the same evening an attempt was made to enter the house of Rev. H. E. Cotton, but the would-be intruders must have been scared away after breaking a window.

Mr. J. F. Burdell's shoe shop was also entered through the front window, but nothing is known to have been taken, although a pair of shoes were taken out, but for some reason were left.

BIRTHDAY. On last Monday occurred Mr. Geo. W. Starbuck's birthday. It is not at all an uncommon occurrence to George—these birthdays—but he must admit the observance of it in the evening of the same day eclipsed all previous anniversaries. About eighteen or twenty of his gentleman friends assembled in the parlors of Mr. E. D. French, and there did justice to the festive occasion. The fun commenced about seven o'clock, and with the assistance of local pianists and vocalists was continued until a late hour.

Brief Locals.

- Thanksgiving.
- Bought our turkey yet?
- The canal was made in 1825.
- Tuesday was decidedly cool.
- The matrimonial market still booms.
- The ever fashionable cold finds many victims.
- The gas lights are now lit at about four o'clock.
- Printers' ink oils the hinges of the store doors.
- The Academy will be closed on Thanksgiving night.
- The town of Quincy does not insure any of its property.
- About a month more before you turn over the new leaf.
- This is the season of wood noises and turkey rattles.
- The organization of the Independent is still to be continued.
- There is to be an attraction at the risk Thanksgiving night.
- The fall of 1884 will long be remembered as a most remarkable season.
- Telephonic communication was somewhat out of order Monday morning.
- Services will be held at the Congregational Church Thanksgiving forenoon at 11 o'clock.
- Peter Butler of this town is named in connection with the collection of the port of Boston.
- The Adams Academy foot ball eleven have won this season two games, lost two and tied three.
- The practice of having a general pig and other sports on Thanksgiving day seems to have died out.
- The Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company has already issued a very fine calendar, for 1885. It is one of the richest we have ever seen.
- A part of Kinder street is in a bad, muddy condition. It is a private way and the residents should take steps to have it repaired.
- The incident taken by the "Providence" generally, it is thought by some will cause the town to vote for license next year.
- J. R. Wild has just completed a fine looking little barge for Mr. Wilson Tisdale. Another is also being built.
- The Coliseum has been decorated on the inside with flags, Chinese lanterns, etc., for the coffee party to be held this (Wednesday) evening.
- There will be no evening service at Christ Church Sunday, and the Sunday School will meet at 4 o'clock to practice the Christmas Carols.
- During the gale of Sunday night the building at Hough's Neck being altered into a house by Mr. Joseph T. French, was blown to the ground.
- Quincy was pretty free from drunkenness during the celebration Saturday evening, but we learn that after the parade there was a disorderly crowd in the Square.
- Rev. R. T. Sawyer was installed last Friday evening as Chief of Amos Council, and elected representative to the Grand Council of Massachusetts, Temple of Honor.
- Several of the trees recently set out by Mr. W. Thomas on his walk in front of his house have been mischievously broken and injured. Young men beware.
- Mrs. Sarah Burrell left her on Tuesday to spend her Thanksgiving with her daughter, Mrs. Solomon Lovell, in North Weymouth. She will probably stop several weeks.
- We stated in our paper of the 15th inst. that the Soldiers' Monument at Waterbury, Conn., was built at Frederick & Fields, which is a mistake as it was built at the Mitchell Granite Works.
- The Right Rev. Benjamin H. Paddock, bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts, will preach at Christ Church Sunday, and during the morning service will administer the rite of confirmation.
- We learn from the Boston Herald that Mr. John G. Graham has sold his bay gelding, Index, to Mr. L. Whitaker of Boston. He has also sold a bay colt, foaled in 1883, to Mr. F. D. Wilson of Lynn.
- The Old Farmer's Almanac for 1885, has been received. This old and cherished friend of all New England homes retains its bright and cheery look, notwithstanding its age. For sale at E. B. Souther's periodical store.
- The wind blew almost a gale, and the rain fell in torrents on Sunday night; but we have not learned of much damage having been done here. One or two chimneys and fences were blown down, and also the guideboard marking Summer street.
- A post office was established in Quincy in 1795, with Richard Cranch as postmaster, which office he held until his death in 1811. It was located at his residence on School street, now the site of the residence of Mr. James Edwards.
- The new fence at the Quincy station is to be six feet high, and will be a solid board fence. We learn that some of the residents on the west side of the track will insist on having a gateway through, claiming that they have traveled over it twenty-five years that they have the right of way.
- From old records in the possession of Mr. E. W. Underwood we learn that workmen commenced digging the well over which the Town Pump now stands Sept. 29, 1857, the same year the PATRIOT was established. (Perhaps this is why the PATRIOT wanted its neighbor restored.) The money was raised by subscription, and Mr. Luke Ridout had the contract.
- SOCIABLE. The next entertainment and supper at the Universalist vestry will take place next week, on Thursday evening, instead of Wednesday as on former occasions. Mr. Woodward, the celebrated whistler of Milton, an eminent German musician of Dedham and other fine talent has been secured for this occasion. Full particulars given next week by flyers.
- REAL ESTATE. Caroline Dunkerton, administratrix of estate of Wm. Dunkerton, to Wm. J. Williams, land and buildings on the east side of Granite street, for $2825. William J. Williams to Joseph Fletcher, same estate, for $2825.
- While many others may have been as brilliantly illuminated as some of the above, we will only give the names of

THE CELEBRATION.

A Democratic Victory celebrated in Quincy.

Torchlight Processions, Illuminations, Salutes, etc.

All the reserve force of the Democratic party which has been accumulating since they surrendered the reins of government twenty-four years ago, was allowed its freedom on Saturday evening last, and the election of Cleveland to the Presidency, was celebrated with much pomp. Rain had prevented once or twice an earlier demonstration, but this had only allowed the forces more time to organize. The prominent citizens who had the affair in charge, were a guarantee that it would be a grand turnout. The procession, perhaps, was not as long as many had expected, there being only two or three out-of-town bodies present. The visitors were all Belvas, Dudes and Mugwumps, who seem to have risen to considerable prominence during the Presidential election.

The procession started at sunset when the quinquennies shut down work, and the whistles were blown. At about 7:30 all bells connected with the fire alarm, and also many of whistles sounded 2-1-3 three times. During the evening a salute of one hundred guns was fired from the small hill near the railroad track in the rear of the Steamer house. Bombs, rockets, etc., kept up a continual round of noise and excitement.

The fireworks, which we considered very fine, especially the sun fires and maroon shells, were in charge of Mr. Benj. M. Widger of Boston.

Many of the Belvas were indeed very good looking young ladies.

ORDER OF PROCESSION.

Carriage with specially carrying banner: "Quincy is proud of its record in this election. Democracy and Mag-wumpism did it. Harrah for everybody."

Company of men with very tall hats and banners from McKenzie & Parsons's yards, also a jockey with a man representing Butler, on his back.

Carriage with specially carrying banner: "We are lost—G. O. P."

Hollowback Mugwumps with silk hats.

Randolph Belva Woodcock's headed by E. H. Morgan.

Bugle with specialty from Randolph. Tally ho, with a number of young men in Hollowback Band.

Randolph Dudes and Belvas in couples.

Calcium Light.

Wagon with specially carrying banner: "Wagons with bombs, rockets, etc."

Wagon with merry crew from the Twenty Associates, which after the election of Cleveland, was ordered to be disbanded.

Wagon with colored driver and men representing Blaine, Butler, Drinkwater and Belva. Horse called Elkins. Blaine waving the bloody shirt.

Wagon with scene in Rip Van Winkle carrying banner: "We represent the eight states, and we have waited twenty-four years to do it. We beat Rip Van Winkle by four years."

The route followed was the same as was published in last week's PATRIOT, about five miles in length, and a great many of the houses were illuminated, some of them very brilliantly, and fireworks and bonfires were abundant. Space will not permit us to enter into details as regards all the illuminations, but we will allude to a few of the more prominent:

Mr. W. B. Rice kept open house during the evening and after the parade entertained the committee of arrangements and staff. He was serenaded by the band.

ILLUMINATIONS.

Tirel's and Sons hung Chinese lanterns in great numbers on the front of their large carriage shop. In the center over the door-way was a large painting of Cleveland, the work of Mr. E. R. Smith, which was festooned with flags. There were also several mottoes, and among the number "Society-tum."

Mr. Patrick McDonnell and his sons illuminated their houses and grounds with hundreds of Chinese lanterns which looked splendidly.

The residences of John C. Randall and William B. Rice on Adams street were brightly illuminated with lanterns, etc., and rockets and fireworks were set off as the procession passed.

The illumination of the Adams Academy Boarding house was considered by many the finest of all. There was a candle at each pane, except those of twelve windows, which were reserved to spell the words "Adams Academy," a window being taken for each letter, which were made to show in red.

A. W. Hicks displayed a large rooster, and many lanterns.

At Joseph T. French's was the motto "No converts, no church; welcome Independents," on the top of which was a rooster, lanterns, etc.

Mr. F. Muer illuminated brilliantly and displayed a large transparency representing the Goddess of Liberty with a medallion of Cleveland underneath extended right hand, and that of Hendricks on the left. Also the motto "No more solid South or solid North, but solid Union."

The steamer and hose houses on School street had lanterns from the top of the tower to the ground, and a painting of the Goddess of Liberty was on the front of one building.

At the residence of Mr. Edward Whitcher on School street there were several sets of fireworks, besides rockets, etc.

Mr. Daniel Baxter an ardent Republican, threw open his entire house and lit all the gas jets.

The houses of Wm. B. Hodges, G. F. Wilson, and Abner B. Packard, were all finely illuminated with Japanese lanterns.

While many others may have been as brilliantly illuminated as some of the above, we will only give the names of those we noticed who were illuminated.

Old Colony Railroad.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Old Colony Railroad Company was held in Boston on Tuesday forenoon at the United States Hotel, its President, Mr. Charles F. Chouteau, in the chair. Its Clerk, Hon. John S. Bratton of Fall River, read the call of the meeting, and the record of its twentieth annual meeting and of its late special meeting.

On the question of authorizing the Directors to issue bonds or notes of the company having more than one year to run to an amount not exceeding $500,000, Mr. Chouteau said that $100,000 of the company's bonds mature within the year, and that provision for the second track extension should be made. On motion of Mr. Nathan Thayer, of Leominster, it was voted that the Directors may issue bonds to the amount of $500,000, either coupon or registered, to bear interest at not more than 6 per cent. per annum, and to run not more than twenty years.

President Chouteau said further that it is desirable to construct about one mile of track which will connect the Shawmut and Granite branches of the road, as it will give the company another bridge across the Neponset river, thus providing a means of continuing travel when a portion of the main line may be obstructed.

On motion of Mr. S. B. Phinney of Barnstable, the Directors were authorized to locate and construct this connecting link.

Mr. Henry H. Faxon of Quincy spoke in favor of the road extension from employment of those who use intoxicating liquors. He asked also whether gates are put upon the cars to prevent the passengers from getting out, and they are excellent traps to kill them. Mr. Chouteau replied that he knows of no men in the employment of his company who are in the habit of using intoxicants. He said the gates that they are put upon the cars to prevent the passengers from getting out, and they are excellent traps to kill them. Mr. Chouteau replied that he knows of no men in the employment of his company who are in the habit of using intoxicants. BANNERS AND TRANSPARENCIES.

The large transparency on the wagon bore on two of its sides a good and bad illustration in relation to the late campaign. A part of one represented friend Faxon pumping "Diluted water for swelled heads" from a St. John's pump. In the background were "B. B." and "Belva" in a crippled condition. The likeness of Faxon was very good. On the other sides of the transparency were the mottoes: "It is cold day when we are counted out twice." "Vote of Quincy in 1860: Van Buren (Dem.) 344; Harwich (Whig) 349. Chosen of Quincy 44 years. In 1884: Cleveland (Dem.) 1920; Blaine (Rep.) 917. Look out for 1928." "Cleveland is an unknown quantity, John D. Long," and the comment: "So be it; That's the kind of a quantity Quincy wants!"

The other side of the wagon was in regard to the following insinuation: "The Democratic Party is the party of Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," or "The Democratic Party is owned by British Gold."

The banner of the Civil Service Police said: "To whom it may concern: We keep the good men in but we turn the rascals out."

The Randolph Belvas had the transparency: "1876 and 1884. Poor J. R. Blaine and Ben Butler sent up Salt River by Grover C. and 'R. R.'—Republican Rings Routed."

Another said: "Patient waiters are no losers," and "Home again."

Another: "We Drinkwater, 100,000 for the General."

Another: "G. O. P. gone up."

For the Patriot.

Quincy Cricket Club.

The members of the Quincy Cricket Club and their friends, to the number of about seventy, brought the season to a close on Friday night last, with a ball when dancing was kept up with much spirit until five o'clock in the morning. During the evening Mr. Joseph Graham, Captain of the Club, was presented with a handsome medal for having secured the highest batting average of the season.

The Club has played seven matches during the season of which they have won three, lost three, and one drawn in their favor; which may be considered very good for their first season.

Some of the members of the club take this opportunity of returning their thanks to Mr. John Q. Field for the use of his ground to play on, and also to the Editors of the Patriot for their prompt attention in reporting their matches from time to time.

The Club which is composed of all young men would be pleased if some good citizens would give their aid in securing a ground for the incoming season of 1885.

HENRY O'NEIL, Secretary.

I. O. G. T. On Friday evening last, a delegation from Hancock Lodge Independent Order Good and True of Quincy, attended a district meeting held with Highland Light Lodge of South Weymouth. There was quite a number present from various other Lodges, and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

St. Nicholas. The Christmas St. Nicholas opens with a beautiful frontispiece entitled "The Infant Marguerita Maria." The other illustrated are: Visiting Santa Claus; a poem; Talk about Painting; Davy and the Goblins; chapter 1; Sweet Sister Industry; verse; The Little Unknown; poem; Menaden Sketches; "Oh, Lady Moon,"—verse; Personally Conducted—second paper; III: One Fault—chapter 4; Among the Law-makers—chapter 2; Impisoned in an Iceberg; The Pop-Corn Dance; The St. Nicholas Almanac; For Very Little Folks, and Jack-in-the-Pulpit. The other articles are: "The Light that is felt—A poem; The Hand-organ Man's little Girl; poem; The Hare and the Tortoise—first paper; Tales of Two Continents—part 2; King's feast in Rufus; part 2; What the Philosopher said on Christmas-day, besides a large amount of other interesting matter. Published by the Century Co., Union Square, New York.

West Quincy.

Rev. F. Furber delivered an excellent Thanksgiving sermon on Sunday morning. There will be no service Thanksgiving day.

A resident who has occasion to use Furnace street wishes the Surveyors would improve it a little.

The regular Thursday evening social at the M. E. church will be postponed this week.

The male quartette are expected to sing at the lecture this evening.

It is often remarked here how handy it is to get to the centre of the town, and why is not something done. The only satisfactory thing would probably be a horse railroad, and we do believe this is needed and will pay. Something must be done to keep the town more united. West Quincy is two miles or more from the centre, and with no line of coaches or other communication except by the Old Colony railroad, and this is a round about way with very poor connection often times. There are many who almost daily would like to visit Quincy centre, and this number would be materially increased if there were better facilities. Those who are now in the habit of walking would gladly ride if there were horse cars. All who have interest in the welfare of West Quincy, and even of the whole town, should use their influence and money for some such connection. It would be a line starting somewhere near the West Quincy depot and running by the way of Copeland, Granite, School and Hancock streets to the Town Hall. If such a line was built the residents at Quincy Point might again have forward the idea of a horse railroad to that village. Quincy needs these horse railroads, let something be done to secure them.

Our Streets.

While perhaps some of our principal thoroughfares are not as desirable a condition as might be wished, still we think our Highway Surveyors have done very good work on many of the streets upon the abandonment of the Road Commissioners, costly work

had been begun on some of the "highways and had to be completed. Besides, of the appropriation made at the adjourned annual meeting, quite a little was needed to meet the outlays

since the commencement of the town

year.

While the Surveyors recognize that

Washington, Hancock and Granite streets need considerable repairing and rebuilding, still they know to their cost

as they ought to be would cost more than they had at their command.

Therefore they have wisely turned their attention to other streets, such as those at Atlantic and Wollaston and also Garfield, Cross, Summer, Good-ington and others. The work on the first named being very noticeable. The extension of Quincy street has been made in a good substantial manner at least to the amount appropriated, and the work on widening and repaving of the old section will continue until the appropriation is exhausted.

With the opening of the new road

from Quincy avenue to South street it has been found necessary to retrench

South and Summer streets in Washington, both of which streets are to be still further improved, and made more serviceable for heavy teaming. The entire length of Water street is also to receive attention, so that a direct route from West Quincy to Garfield, Cross, Summer, Goodington and Point may be opened for the heavy stone teams running between these points, and one which will save many hills. It is really astonishing how quick the stone teams will powder up over the stone chips which are being used.

It is the intention of the Surveyors to improve Washington street the coming

Spring, and make a good road of it

if possible. They will also fix Hancock street. The trouble is the people have expected too much for their money.

Quincy has a great many miles of streets, and there is no town that has such a large amount of heavy teaming

as here, and if we want the best of roads, we must expend a large amount yearly in a systematic manner.

Contested Game of Cricket.

It will be remembered that on the thirteenth of September a very close game of cricket was played between the Quincy and Chelsea as follows:

The Chelsea scored 42 in 10 overs, and the Quincy 41. In the second inning the Chelsea made 59, and the Quincy 60, with but eight wickets down. Each club had thus scored 101

runs, but the Quincy had two wickets

yet to fall when game was called on account of darkness. The Quincy considered the game a tie, while the Chelsea claimed a victory on the ground that as the second inning was not completed, the score went back to the first inning.

To settle the disputed point Henry

O'Neill, secretary of the Quincy, wrote to a friend named Leighton in London,

who was to refer the matter to the secretary of the Marylebone Cricket Club. The question was referred, and after mature deliberation the secretary of the English club sent his answer to Mr. Leighton, and it has just reached Mr. O'Neill's hands. It reads as follows:

M. C. C., Lords, October 25, 1884.

Mr. Leighton.

Dear Sir.—I wished before answering your letter to get opinions from all those best qualified to judge, and the result is unanimous.

The match is drawn for the reason that when both sides have obtained the same number of runs neither side can use the match.

It would be absurd that a side which has tied

the other on two innings should be in a worse position with a number of wickets to fall than all were out.

DEPARTMENT OF FIVE MILLIONS.

Third Assistant Postmaster-General

Hazen, in his report for the year ending

last June, shows the postal service resulted to have been $43,338,127. Cost of service $48,542,511, making a deficiency of $5,204,383. The receipts decreased $2,170,265, or 4.7 per cent, from the previous year, the cause being mainly the reduction of postage.

Out of 11,246,545 registered letters and parcels handled, only 8565 were reported as lost or delivered, and 1992 were under inquiry, leaving only 216 actually known to be lost.

Blaine's largest plurality is in Pen-sylvania, 81,006, and his plurality in the Northern States is nearly 300,000.

Old Colony Railroad.

At no time since the establishment of this great New England corporation

has the work of improvement reached such magnificent results as at the present season. A double track has been completed nearly to Middleboro, and a new passenger station is to be built at once at Taunton. The double track is also well under way on the Dighton branch, with two new depots to be constructed this fall on the Warren branch.

A new depot is to be built at once at Cohasset, which will be an ornament to that picturesque locality. New Bedford is also to have a beautiful depot in keeping with the demand from the wealthy and cultured city. The last structure at North Brookton is competed, and will soon be in use, and also the one at Neponset. Taking into account the conveniences furnished in various ways, the safety and rapidity of transport, and the promptness of dispatch, the conclusion is inescapable,

that no corporation in New England

gives a greater opportunity for the money than does the Old Colony.

GRANITE. We read a great deal about the decay of granite, and the effects of weather on it when exposed to the effects of a changeable climate,

and (any one who has read Mark

Twain's "New England weather" can understand how changeable it is.) The clerk chalk lines by which the granite cutters cut the columns, are distinctly

to be seen upon the parts most exposed, and that too from the opposite side of the street. The granite itself is as solid as when first cut and no traces of the scales which white bronze agents

claim make the early decay of stone

can be seen, and indeed, some "tum-

blers" in one of the columns show the

traces of decay.—Granite Cutters' Journal.

THE PACIFIC ROAD. Charles Francis Adams, Jr., is trying to influence

Secretary McCulloch to recommend that the individuals of the Pacific

Road be extended over a period of 60 years; to be paid in semi-annual installments. This debt falls due in 10 years and the road has not the means to pay the debt. The new administration is supposed to be unfavorable to the extension of the road, and the push it through the present Congress and extend the time before they have the power to demand its payment. The road has been a heavy expense to the government, and the Nation doubtless

can be seen, and indeed, some "tum-

blers" in one of the columns show the

traces of decay.—Granite Cutters' Journal.

HAIRPEN'S MONTHLY. The UN-EXpected success of the Christmas

Number of HAIRPEN'S MONTHLY, as year has led the editor and publishers

to attempt this year a still finer Number. The December issue contains no less than six separately printed plates

besides several other full-page illustrations. The frontispiece being a reproduction, in the highest art of the wood-engraving of the charming picture of

"The Boy Jesus in the Temple," by Professor Hofmann of Dresden. The illustrations are of the highest quality and the work of W. B. Casson.

The literary and artistic contributions are of the highest quality, and the editorial matter is of the highest quality.

Warner has a pleasant, profane, well-

THE PASSENGER BUSINESS OF THE Old Colony railroad increased over

$74,000 in the last year, the report showing that the freight traffic fell

in the same time, decreasing the total receipts of about one per cent. There was saving of nearly 5 per cent, in expenses, thus making a net gain of about five per cent. $320,000 were spent on new road work.

A curious fact in relation to the

Greasy Arm Expedition is not generally known. According to Lieutenant

Greasy's account, of the nineteen men who perished all but one were smuggled, and that one was the last to die.

The seven survivors were consumptive. This is an important argument for the anti-smugglers.

A very singular accident happened recently to Conductor Storey at his house in Wollaston. While sleeping his arm and hand became dis-

tached and slipped into the throat.

Efforts to extricate them only resulted in pushing them farther down, and they are now supposed to be in the stomach.

An ardent Democrat called at the N. B. D. office, one coffee, on Saturday, and asked him, "Will you do him a favor? He would like the clerk to change the register of his dog, referred to as 'Benjamin F. Butler,' which he would like to be the register of the animal.

A dead family in New Hampshire has been traced out to the four teenth century in England, and in all that time has regularly shown a succession of dead bodies. In Maine there is a family in which there are subsequent dead bodies, all of them connected by blood or marriage.

A gentleman in Brooklyn had

$25 with another that Blaine would carry New York. The person with whom he had the money died, and regarding the money, the money was paid to the widow.

There are sixty Catholic churches

in Montreal. The French cathedral standing there is the largest church building on this continent. It is built of limestone, and fifteen thousand people have often assembled under its roof.

BELDING BROS'. EXTRAORDINARY KNITTING SILK.

Ladies buying Knitting Silk for hosiery, sweaters, etc., should not fail to ask for Belding's Superior Knitting Silk. Any article made from this unequalled THREAD-KNITTING SILK will outwear that made from the ordinary silk. These goods, as well as all other goods manufactured by this firm, are second to none in the world. The reputation which Belding Bros. & Co. have achieved is, in a large measure, due to the fact that they have uniformly refused to place any goods on the market that will not stand the severest test. Excellence is the sine qua non with them. They make no thread to sell simply because it is cheap, but their idea is to make their goods sell because they are better than anybody else can furnish. With this idea in view, they have produced silk thread of every description which is unrivaled for merit, and their goods are considered "standard" wherever civilization exists.

A Thanksgiving Story.

The paddings and pies on the pantry shelf (I know it was so, I saw it myself) Had a falling out on Thanksgiving day. And I heard every word they had to say. I think I was just about thirty years old. And I was in the house with a horrid cold. The rice pudding began, counting his plums. And calling, "Children, come, put in your thanks."

"I'm as full of sin as I can hold. And all the way through as yellow as gold." "Yellow?" "Well, then, sir, so am I." "Quoth a grave and motherly pumpkin pie. And just as happy as a pig in clover."

"For every one chuckles who looks at me." "It's me they're looking at," said the squash. "Beetle a squash pie a pumpkin body." "I shall not last for a very long while."

"The mince pie said, with a broad, winning smile. 'Look for me this Thanksgiving day. For I'm rich I should soon melt away.' "Rich?" cried the apple pie, wagging her head. "You'll be in the stomach as heavy as lead. So I heard it said, but all say of me. That pie is wholesome as wholesome can be."

"The mince pie said, with a broad, winning smile. 'Look for me this Thanksgiving day. For I'm rich I should soon melt away.' "Rich?" cried the apple pie, wagging her head. "You'll be in the stomach as heavy as lead. So I heard it said, but all say of me. That pie is wholesome as wholesome can be."

Household Receipts.

ECONOMICAL SOUP. Take what remains of all cold goose or turkey, and put to boil in sufficient cold water to cover all the bones, and boil steadily four hours; season with salt and pepper, and add a few vegetables, as for other soups; thicken with a little rice and it makes a reliable dish.

CLAMS WITH CREAM. Chop fifty small clams, but not too fine, and season with pepper and salt. Put in a stewpan butter the size of an egg, and when it bubbles sprinkle in a teaspoonful of flour, which cook a few minutes; stir gradually into it the clam liquor, then the clams, which stew about two or three minutes; then a cupful of boiling cream, and serve immediately.

GRAHAM ROLLS FOR BREAKFAST OR TEA. Make of graham flour, one-half cup of wheat flour, two tablespoonsful of baking powder, half a cup of sugar, a small teaspoonful of salt; mix with cold water and bake in a quick oven.

PLAIN CAKES. One and a half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one small cup of sour milk, one teaspoonful of saleratus, flour to mix, flavor with nutmeg. Roll one-half inch thin, cut in round cakes, and bake quickly.

Kerosene will soften boots or shoes which have been hardened by water, and render them as supple as new. Kerosene will make tin teakettles as bright as new. Saturate a wooden rag and rub with it. It will also remove stains from clean varnished furniture.

When one has had a fever and the hair is falling off, take a teaspoon of sage steep in a quart of soft water, strain it off into a tight bottle. Sponge the head with the tea frequently, wetting the roots of the hair.

There are sixty-one playing card factories in Germany.

A boy in Decktown has grown 10 inches in height within 10 days.

Mr. Edwin Beck, of Milton, raised 523 beans from one pole seed-bush this summer.

It is proposed to put a "time" staff and ball on the top of Washington Monument.

The area of the coal fields of the world is estimated at 134,000 geographical miles.

England imports annually about a hundred million dollars' worth of butter and cheese.

Mr. Bennett had the ice cream served in cups and saucers made of ice, at his Newport grand ball.

A man living near Rock Landing on the Connecticut river, mortgaged his house and farm in order to bet on the election.

Mr. Thomas O. Jackson, of Plymouth, has harvested about three thousand bushels of apples this year. He has one of the finest orchards in the country.

A railroad station recently finished in Birmingham, Eng., at a cost of $2,000,000, is credited with being the largest structure in the world in use for a similar purpose.

The censors of the Norfolk District Medical Society have admitted Dr. H. L. Harrison, of Hotel Northwood, as a member of the society. This is the first female physician ever admitted.

This and That.

A certain only philanthropist, who is noted for his pretentiousness and his stinginess, was described the other day by a poor woman as "a man who feeds the sick with an empty spoon, and all the while talks nicely about gruel."

Three healthy young men rode out to the country one day to visit a peevish old lady, and at dinner said with dismay that the table contained about enough food for one delicate appetite. The poet of the party being requested by the old lady to ask a blessing, complied in this wise: "Three slices of bread for four of us—Thank the Lord there are no more of us!"

A member of the Legislature who attended a service at the Episcopal Church was asked how he liked it, and replied: "Pretty well. I liked it and fell with them every time."

"Oh, mamma, mamma!" said a little girl the other day, as she saw a chicken without any feathers in its tail, "see dat ole hen! She has lost her ribbons out of her polonaise."

American tramps will be pleased to learn that the English custom of eating five meals a day is being introduced into this country. The news may not be so great to the farmer's poor body, however.

A North Carolina girl was a victim of the beautiful skin of a snake she killed with her own hands. A fair exchange is no robbery. She probably gave the snake a belt over the head when she killed him.

When a young man is fingering the cash left him by his grandfather can it be said he is reveling in his ancestral haunts?

"There now!" cried a little girl, while rummaging a drawer in a bureau. "gran'pa has gone to heaven without his spectacles."

So many women are doing work formerly done by men that the male sex is being driven into matrimony as a means of support.

The combination, proportion, and process in preparing Hood's Sanguiferia, are peculiar to this medicine, and unknown to others.

Fashion Notes.

Colors and materials are blended in old and novel ways in the new imported costumes. Some of the plain overskirts having linings of checked materials, which are revealed by artful looping and twisting. Others have a Biarritz glove, but six little eyes arranged in two rows an inch and a half apart in front of the wrist. Through these a little tasseled cord is laced, and when the glove is drawn on, one pull at the tassel tightens it and keeps it in place, and then the cord is fastened about a little knob of metal.

Light silk jerseys for evening wear have a velvet plastron embroidered with silk and gold. The high collar on the corsage and parements on the elbow sleeves are also of velvet, covered with gold and silk embroidery.

Braids of all kinds are much used for dress decorations. Figaro jackets are made of velvet gathered for dressy fall wear. Skirts are nearly all gathered in at the waist.

Jetted braids appear among dress trimmings. No heels and full gathered skirts are coming in fashion. Every woman of fashion has at least one lace toilet.

Belts and sashes tied to one end are much in favor.

"The Day of the Dead."

The second of November is, in the church calendar, All Souls' Day. In France the same idea is expressed by the name "jour des morts," or the day of the dead. Graves are then decorated with real or artificial flowers and wreaths, by loving hands.

Everybody visits the graves of the dead relatives or friends, and the crowds at the cemeteries are so large that gentlemen are stationed to keep the people in line. Friends leave cards at the tombs of their friends, so the families may know who has visited the last resting place of their loved ones. The custom of leaving cards is observed through the entire year. Most of the graves are as vaults, with a little room over them. The door is an iron grating.

Cards left there are protected from the weather, and when the family visits the place they take them and send return cards by mail, thus acknowledging the kind remembrance. Youth's Companion.

Poetry.

Rounding the Point.

"Haha! Be quick, my men!" he cries.
The way is rough, the point is long;
And yet beyond, the harbor lies.
Push on, though wind and tide be strong.
"Now tack again!" Her canvas looses.
And give her every inch of sail.
The light-house past, beyond is home!
Alas, alas, we try—but fail!
"Once more, away we dash, away!"
Now tuff-alo, tuff round, ho-ho!
Hard, hard-alo! Hurrah! Hurrah!
For round the ragged point we go!
The surging waves around the bow,
The sails aloft, the wind, the sea;
They seem to cry, "All's well! All's well!"
O, souls on board, you may not know
Will boldly push the waters through.
And ye who breast the gales of life,
What hearts you cheer you never know.
Fall not! Fall not! They follow you
As round the ragged point you go.
—E. A. Rood.

Miscellany.

A Private Ambassador.

"To my Grand-aunt Garraway's!" said Phoebe, bursting into tears. "I'll be in the Catskills, where no one hears anything but tree-trees and whippoor-wills, and the grass grows in the middle of the road, and there isn't a wagon goes past unless you count the hay-carts and the dairy stage!"
"I'll be in the Catskills!" sobbed Phoebe.

"I never heard anything so cruel in all my life!" said Jimmie, the maid-of-all-work. "Not even in the last number of 'Ferdinetta the Forsaken,' where the poor heroine is forbidden to—"

"Do hold your tongue, Jimmie, and get about your work!" said Phoebe, sharply. "Who asked you to interfere?
Mamma will be very angry when she comes in and finds the parlors are not done up."

And Jimmie slunk away rather discomfited.

"I'm sure 'Ferdinetta the Forsaken' never would have spoke to a poor help that way," thought she, with a sniff.
"Miss Phoebe can't be a real heroine!"

While Miss Parks remained to consolidate Phoebe's trunk as she helped to pack the trunks which were to be sent to Grand-aunt Garraway's by express.

"And I'm not even to be allowed to bid him good-by?" wailed the forlorn young damsel. "Oh, I don't see how mamma can be so hard-hearted!"

"Is he very handsome?" said Miss Parks, whose life had not known many love affairs.

"Exactly like a troubadour!" said
Phoebe, enthusiastically.

"Dear, dear!" said Miss Parks, with a vague idea of black velvet, a guitar, and white satin sleeve-linings.

"With melancholy eyes, and a moustache as black as ink," said Phoebe.

"Oh, don't put my collars in the same tray with the French heeled boots, please!"

"And what is his business?" said
Miss Parks.

"He is here on a private embassy for the Russian government," said Phoebe proudly. "But that's just what mamma won't believe. He says he cannot divulge his identity without betraying his trust. As soon as his mission is over, he says he will force the matter satisfactorily; explanations; but mamma actually believes him to be an impostor."

"Oh, dear!" said Miss Parks.
"You see, mamma isn't a physiognomist," said Phoebe, "for she would read truth plainly inscribed upon his noble brow. The checked summer silk next, Miss Parks, though I don't know what you checked summer silks will be to me at Grand-aunt Garraway's."

"So Phoebe Tascon was sent to Grand-aunt Garraway's, at the foot of High Peak, to get her out of the way of Mr.
Middleton De Motte."

She was a little disappointed that the snug Quincey Anne cottage was not more dainty-looking, and that the solitary mountain path turned out to be a well-traveled turnpike. She had made up her mind to travel martyrdom;
and Mrs. Garraway, instead of being a look-alike old crone, with a gold-headed cane and a temper, was a cheerful old lady, whose cheeks were tinted with fresh bloom, like a winter-apple, and who wore a black silk dress with lace ruffles.

The parlor door was covered with a real Turkey rug; there was a cabinet of old china in the corner; a little maid in a white cap waited at the table; and Grand-aunt Garraway's jewel-case was a marvel to behold.

The old lady had traveled in Europe,
read all the newest books, and drove a little basket-phenon with a fat, dapper pony, and to Phoebe's surprise, she was eminently sympathetic.

"Dear aunt," said the girl, "I never dressed you were as nice as this!"

"Well, my dear," said Grand-aunt Garraway, "I have been young myself, and I don't believe in putting too much constraint upon the heart"—(here Phoebe jumped up and kissed her)—"so,

"I didn't know, child," said the old lady. "I thought that everything wasn't right. But don't fret.
One doesn't expect a young girl like you to be the best judge of character in the world. Harry Sanford declared he was a rascal the first moment he set eyes on him."

"You see," said Harry, "he never looked me straight in the eyes. That is an unfailing symptom."

And Harry Sanford set himself so diligently to work to console the disillusioned maiden that he soon succeeded in restoring her temporarilyeuphoric smiles.

So the expedition to Grand-aunt Garraway's proved a success, after all.
The Middleton De Motte engagement was broken up, and there is every probability that a new one will rise, Phoenix-like, out of its ashes.—Heaven
Forest Graces.

"Oh, he did?" said Grand-aunt Garraway.

"He said he was hungering and thirsting for one of my sweet glances," added Phoebe, blushing very prettily.
"And he slept on the hay in the barn
last night."

"My dear child, this will never do!"
pronounced Grand-aunt Garraway.
"He must come here!"

"Here, aunt?"

"I want to see him for myself," said
Mrs. Garraway.

"Your mother, my child, has every confidence in my judgment," said
Grand-aunt Garraway, impressively.
"Didn't I tell you it was no part of my theory to put an unnatural force upon the inclination? If he really loves you so devotedly, he shall have at least a chance. It isn't in the fitness of things that my grand-niece's suitor should be sneaking around the back-orchard, and sleeping in the hay-loft like a tramp!"

Phoebe colored a little.

"But what else could he do, Aunt Garraway?" said she.

"For that very reason," said the old lady, with dignity, "I invite him here
as a guest. My husband's nephew, Harry Sanford, is to be here to-night from Boston; but there is plenty of room. Harry shall sleep in the Cedar chamber. Mr. De Motte shall have the red room. Where is he now?"

"I think he is having a cigar and reading the newspaper in the smokehouse," rather guiltily confessed Phoebe.

"Go and call him in," said Mrs. Garraway. "Tell him he shall be welcome."

And Phoebe obeyed, scarcely able to believe her own ears.

"She's a deal better than any fairy godmother I ever heard of," thought Mrs. De Motte.

Mr. De Motte was indeed tall and troubadour-like. He had dark, pensive eyes, and wore a very handsome satin necktie; and if his finger nails were not as clean as Mrs.

Poetry.
The Good Old Way.
John Man had a wife who was kind and true,
A wife who loved him well;
She cared for his home and their only child,
But, if the truth must tell,
She fretted and pined because John was poor,
And his business was slow to pay.
But he only said, when she talked of change,
"We'll stick to the good old way."

When his neighbors were growing rich,
And dwelling in houses grand,
That she was living in poverty,
With wealth on every hand;
And she urged her husband to speculate,
To risk his earnings at play;
But he only said, "My dear wife,
We'll stick to the good old way."

For he knew that the money that's quickly got
Is money that's quickly lost;
And the money that stays is the money earned
At honest endeavor's cost.
So he plodded along in his honest style,
And he bettered himself each day;
And he only said to his faithful wife,
"We'll stick to the good old way."

And at last there came a terrible crash,
When beggary, want and shame,
Came down on the names of their wealthy friends.
While John's remained the same;
For he had no debts, and gave no trust.
"My motto is this," he'd say,
"It's a charm against pains of every kind—
"Tis 'stick to the good old way.'"

And his wife looked round on the little house
That was every nail her own,
And she asked forgiveness of honest John,
For the peevish mistrust she had shown.
But he only said, as her tearful face
Upon his shoulder lay,
"The good old way is the best way, wife—We'll stick to the good old way."

Miscellany.
"For Fun."
"What has been planned for to-morrow evening?" cried a chorus of voices,
as a small company of young people,
camping out among the New Hampshire mountains, were about to separate for the night. Several plans were suggested, but none of them met with unanimous approval.

"Mr. Carlson," asked one of the young ladies.
"I, Miss Mary?" answered the young man, who had been leaning indifferently against a tree. "I am going to the village to-morrow, and probably will not return until the following day."
"Mr. Carlson must have found some modern Maud Muller, who offers attractions much superior to ours, else
he would not make such frequent journeys to the 'large metropolis of Meadiwile.' This remark was made in a very sarcastic tone by a young lady who was stirring the dying embers of the camp fire.

The blood mounted high into Carlson's face, and reaching out his hand to brush off a spark which had fallen on the young lady's dress, he said in a low tone: "Miss Thurston, what matters it to you if I go to-day?"
"But, before she could answer, Carlson's sister cried petulantly: 'Oh! let him go. Arthur will never break an appointment, unless, perhaps, for a wedding or funeral.'"

"Here!" cried all the gentlemen, "who will volunteer to have a wedding on Carlson's account?"
"I will help you out in that, Cousin John," cried Miss Thurston. "I have been meditating marriage for some time, and this is the first opportunity
I have cared to embrace."

"But, Margie," replied her Cousin John, as if greatly perplexed, "you see,
not anticipating this event and never having been encouraged by you to consider myself a candidate for such honors, I have spoken to another girl on the subject."

Every one joined in the laugh at Miss Thurston's expense; but Arthur Carlson, met the laughter in the hand, and said: "Margie, I have never been coming out of the room opposite.
Stopping to inquire if any one were ill,
the kind but gossipy little landlady became to tell in broken Italian of the young foreigner who had come to live in the house, and with which after had been taken ill with a fever, and now was very ill indeed. She conducted Margaret into the room. The curtain was closely drawn, and coming from the light into the darkness, she was blinded for a moment. Not so with the sick man. Looking up to greet his visitor he uttered a sharp cry
and the one word "Margie!"

Margaret stood as if stunned, and then advanced rapidly. The sick man was Arthur Carlson. He raised his thin, wasted hand and tenderly stroke
the bright locks on the pillow beside him. "Poor little Margie," he said faintly, "you will soon be free now."
Then Margaret never knew how she forgot everything connected with the past; she only remembered that the man lying there, sick unto death, was her husband. At last the proud spirit was humbled, and she confessed what she had kept so jealously guarded in her own breast for so long. "Oh, Arthur," she cried in her agony; "oh, my husband, only forgive the past and try to live for the future. Give me the helping me, I will try to live."
The excitement of the moment gave Arthur back his strength. Raising himself on his elbow, he lifted the bright head beside him until he could look into the lovely eyes. In one moment they read the mistake of those years in each other's face. Each had loved, each had misunderstood.
For many days the flickering flame of life burned low, but it was fed from the fountain of love in the breast which now so often pilloved the weary head, and at last death was conquered.

Tell Your Wife.
If you are in any trouble or quandry,
tell your wife, that is if you have one,
all about it at once. Ten to one her invention will solve your difficulty sooner than all your logic. The wit of woman has been praised, but her instincts are quicker and keener than her reason.
Counsel with your wife, mother or sister, and be assured light will break up your darkness. Women are too commonly adjudged as verand in all their purely womanly affairs. No philosophical students of the sex thus judge them. Their intuitions, or insights, are the most subtle.

In counselling a man to tell his wife,
we would go further, and advise him to keep one of his affairs a secret from her. Many a home has been happily saved, and many a fortune retrieved by a man's full confidence in his "better half." Woman is far more a seer and prophet than man, if she be given a fair chance. As a general rule, wives confide the minutest of their plans and thoughts to their husbands, having no involvements to screen from them.
Why not reciprocate, if but for the pleasure of meeting confidence with confidence? We are certain that no man succeeds so well in the world as he who, taking a partner in life, makes her the partner of his purposes and hopes. What is wrong of his impulse or judgment she will check and set right with her almost universally right instincts. "Help meet" was no insignificant title as applied to man's companion. She is a help meet to him in every darkness, difficulty and sorrow of life, and what she most cares and feels for is the preparation of a future which love is never free from a shadow.

To the Sleepless.
Somnia writes the New York Star:
"I hope that I may bring a little comfort to some of those who have tossed from one side of a hot bed to the other,
through these melting nights, vainly seeking for the sleep that would not come to their wearied frames. Those who have lived in India, China, or Australia, know the value of a 'Manila sheet,' a thin mat of fine straw placed between the mattress and the lower sheet. The same thing is used in Central America by the native Indians and universally used, while in Cuba a great piece of leather is frequently put to the same service. These things are not always accessible here.
I know of several of my friends who have lately searched the Chinese and Japanese shops of New York for Manila sheets, only to be told: 'We have had them, but are quite out of the article at present.' But necessity is the mother of invention, and I think it was a positive inspiration that, last week, suggested the use of a long piece of white muslin, or gauze, or matting, or any of the kind of material which is used in the preparation of the invalid of my family had passed the long, weary, sleepless nights, rising unrefreshed after a hot night of unrest.
I ordered his mattress to be covered with a long strip of the common red of the white muslin, which during the summer had taken the place of a rug in my own room. Since then he never fails each morning to express his satisfaction and comfort. This is so simple and cheap a remedy, that I hope some of our readers may be induced to give it a trial.

Salt for the Throat.
In these days when diseases of the throat prevail, I would advise those thus afflicted to try my remedy—common salt. For the past two years I have suffered more or less with a very disagreeable sensation in my throat, as though it had splinters in it, and was fancied at some time or other I had swallowed a pin or a lawyer's fish story, and one of the bones had remained sticking in my throat. Determined to ascertain, if possible, the cause of my trouble, I called to my aid my medical works, which are by no means limited, and under the head of throat diseases

I found it to be laryngitis, which alarmed me as it from a friend allured me to use strong salt-water as a gargle, which I have done the past two months and my throat is well. I put a heaping tea-spoonful of coarse salt (Liverpool) in a tumbler of water and gargled my throat thoroughly three times a day, before each meal, and the last thing on going to bed, and, in addition to that, doubled a linen handkerchief twice, four thicknesses, wet it with the salt-water and pinned it around my throat, placing over that two thicknesses of dry flannel.
A friend told me that she always broke up a cold in that way, and by sniffing a little up her nose.
The gargle is not unpleasant to the taste. I also use it diluted to bathe my eyes. It is very strengthening, and if it is good for the throat it must be good for the eyes also.
For the benefit of those who have not a medical work in their library I will copy in brief from mine the symptoms of chronic laryngitis. "It often commences with a slight hoarseness and irritation of the throat, frequent hemming or raising of scanty mucus and a slight cough. As the disease progresses these symptoms increase. In the earlier stages the voice is uncertain and often breaks in singing or loud speaking. Later, ulceration takes place, generally marked by pain in the throat as from a sharp-pointed body; the discharge becomes offensive; portions of lymph, cartilage and even osseous matter are emitted. There is usually soreness of the larynx on pressure and from inhalation of cold air.
It forms the so-called ministers' sore throat, and presents every grade of severity down to the most inveterate forms of laryngeal consumption."—Herald

Sea-Weed and its Uses.
In tropical climates the little air
bladders which support the sea-weeds are of great service, for the masses of sea-weed are several hundred feet long and of considerable height, having stems the thickness of a man's thigh,
and branches and drooping stems which support innumerable forms of animal life, such as corals, crabs, worms of different kinds, together with mosses and weeds of various kinds, and being besides a place of refuge for innumerable eggs of various creatures. In Scotland the tender parts of the sea-weeds, known as tangles, are used as food, and when cooked are considered firm and from inhalation of cold air.
They are very hard, horny variety of the sea-weeds are used as knife-handles. They are cut in short pieces, and while moist or green the blade is forced in at one end. When the stem dries it strings firmly to the knife-handle, and the gnarled and horny it resembles buck's horn, and when tipped with metal and fully finished, forms an expensive knife-handle. The rose tanglers are higher up in the scale of vegetable life,
and their delicate intricate render them very beautiful. Of these, dulse is an important variety to the Scotch and Irish, who, beside using it as a food, boils it in milk, and the sea-weed is milk, find in it a substitute for tobacco.
Carrageen moss is another kind of seaweed, from which a nourishing jelly is made. The Chinese use one variety of rose-tangle as a chief ingredient in their soups, and the Japanese use the annually to Canton and sold at from six to eighteen pence per pound.

Rest for Headaches.
Dr. Day says, in a late lecture,
"Whatever be the plan of treatment decided upon, rest is the first principle to inculcate in every severe headache.
Rest, which the busy man and anxious nervous cannot obtain so long as they can manage to keep about, is one of the first remedies for every headache, and we should never cease to enforce
it. The brain, when excited, as much needs quiet and repose as a fractured limb or an inflamed eye, and it is obvious that the chances of shortening the duration of the headache are to be depend on our power to have this carried out effectually. It is a practical lesson to keep steadily in view, in that there may lurk behind a simple headache
some lesson of unknown magnitude which may remain stationary if quiet-ude can be maintained.
"There is a point worth attending to in the treatment of all headaches. See that the head is elevated at night, and decide upon a rest, for if the head is bent, it sinks into it and becomes hot, which with some people is enough to provoke an attack in the morning if sleep has been long and heavy."

Profitable Poultry.
"I started poultry keeping in 1868, and it took me a few years to get the hang of the business, but now I am master of it, and can make it always profitable. In 1872, I had 500 hens, and my total receipts from them were $2,290.40, while their feed cost me
$1,696.75, leaving me a clear profit of $1,593.65 over the cost of the feed. In 1881, I had 1,500 hens; my total receipts were $4,245; the feed consumed cost $1,556, leaving a clear profit of $2,689.
02 for my labor. The profit depends on the grain market, the egg market, and the skill of the poultry raiser."
This is the experience in a few words of D. W. Andrews, of Essex Co., Mass., and shows that when the right sort of a man, or woman either, "gets the hang" of the business, poultry keeping on a large scale can be made a success.

SATURDAY, DEC. 13, 1884.

Quincy and Milton Boundary.

It is a well known fact that Quincy is very irregular in its shape. A part of the boundary is natural, being the sea coast, but there is no good reason why the remainder should be so irregular, especially that between this town and Milton. Attempts have been made on numerous occasions to have it straightened but none seem to succeed. The town has, at its recent town meeting, authorized its Selectmen to confer with a similar committee from Milton, but with little result. On Thursday of last week the following petition was received by the Board of Selectmen:

Messrs. George H. Field, E. A. Perkins, C. A. Spear, Selectmen of Quincy: Your petitioners respectfully represent that they are residents of, or taxpayers in, that part of the town of Quincy known as North Quincy, and lying westerly of a red line on plan herewith presented; they represent that the present boundary line between the town of Quincy and Milton in this vicinity is very irregular, frequently crossing and recrossing the highways, therefore necessitating the expense of litigation by the highway and police authorities of Quincy and Milton, consequently the public safety and convenience of the inhabitants of Quincy, and particularly of your petitioners, suffers.

Herewith we transmit a plan, or tracing, showing the present boundary line between the towns, and a line in red ink which we suggest as a new boundary line for your consideration.

By the adoption of this red boundary line the town of Quincy will have the entire control of Hancock street, and the town of Milton of Granite street, both of said streets now being subject to joint control.

We respectfully petition that said red line be recommended and adopted as a new boundary line, and that the General Court be petitioned for legislation to that effect.

James Faulkner, Wm. J. R. Evans for heirs of Wm. Evans, Horatio N. Holbrook, trustee and treasurer, John Shedd, Josiah Holbrook, Margaret H. Holbrook, heirs of Josiah Holbrook, F. L. Pierce, R. Augustus Duggan for heirs of Ebenezer B. Duggan, John W. Wm. Faulkner, H. J. Sawyer, F. A. Howe, trustees, J. E. Farwell trustee, Thomas Keaton.

There are two new boundaries outlined by the red lines spoken of in the petition. Both of them start from the point on the north side of Beale street near Adams street where the present line now strikes Beale street. One continues in a nearly northerly direction to and across Squantum street, just east of the estate of the late Dr. Wm. B. Duggan, to the Granite Branch railroad, and follows along the north side of this railroad to the intersection of the present boundary at Sagamore creek, and thence to the Neponset river by the present line. The other red line, starting from the same point on Beale street, takes a straight course but in a little more easterly direction, and crosses Squantum street a few rods east of Farmington street and continues to the present boundary at Sagamore creek and thence to the Neponset river.

The Selectmen notified the petitioners that a hearing would be held at their room yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, but we do not know the action taken.

The boundary proposed cannot certainly be advantageous to this town. It will not only lose many acres of good land but eight or more houses, and what little land that is left would be low, marshy meadows of little value. While that part of Hancock street now in Milton is in a poor condition, and while Quincy has expended nearly a thousand dollars this year in repairing Granite avenue within its limits, it doubtless would be much better for the whole of Hancock street to be in Quincy, and Granite avenue in Milton, and to such an exchange Quincy would probably yield. Regarding the other line, however, it should, and doubtless will be opposed, for it looks like a scheme of the petitioners to become a part of Milton, more than to straighten the line.

We think a straight line from the present line, near the junction of Squantum and Curve streets, in a nearly northerly direction to Neponset river would be accomplished with less trouble and would be just what is desired by both Quincy and Milton. It would straighten the line and that is all that is wanted.

Shall We Make a Change?

When the question of a division of Quincy arises we believe the proper thing to do will be to change our form of town government to that of a city, rather than to divide. This question has appeared before us frequently of late, but is at the present time dormant. However, it is liable to arise at any moment, and if some action is not taken through the Legislature to become a city, we think a petition may be sent in for a dismemberment of the town. We believe, however, that a majority of the voters desire to keep it intact and will do so.

The trouble with our present government is that all sections of the town are not represented on the board of selectmen; that the annual appropriations cannot receive due consideration where all the business is conducted through an adjourned town meeting in an afternoon, or even in a day; and that satisfactory results are not obtained in several departments, more especially the roads.

Under a town government it would be impracticable to have the number of selectmen to seven, that all sections might be represented; but not so with a board of aldermen, or a city council. It is not thought wise by many to entrust the appropriations to a board of aldermen, because they claim that it would be easier to get an appropriation from the town up, and will have it if it does cost a little more. The old machinery is nearly worn out and should be replaced with new. All changes cost something, but improvements generally pay in the end.

We do not know as our wards would be any better cared for under a city government than under a town, but we do know that our streets are many of them in a terrible condition, and that larger appropriations are more needed than a change. When our streets are once put in a first class condition the annual cost will not be so great. Until then we must make large appropriations.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Last Sunday evening a concert was given by the Sabbath School connected with the Congregational Church, which was most enjoyably carried out, and much enjoyed by the large congregation in attendance.

Thanks are due Mr. Charles H. Shierman who prepared the exercises, and to all who took part to make the same a success. Worthy of special note were readings by Miss L. L. Totman, Miss L. T. Harlow and Miss Eva Hall, and a solo by Miss Louisa Carter.

The Sunday School here has a Christmas tree and entertainment on Christmas eve.

The Ladies' Aid Society connected with the church held a social in the vestry on Thursday evening. About 100 were present and considering the bad walking this was a good attendance.

On Wednesday evening the teachers and friends interested in the First Baptist Sunday school held a "neck-tie-and-apron sale" festival in the vestry of the chapel. The entertainment consisting of an organ solo, songs, declamations and recitations, was most favorably received by an appreciative audience.

The refreshments—ice cream, cake, confectionery and fruit—were declared by many to be of the finest quality. The festival was closed by a solo by the Pastor, the treasurer reports that the sum of money to buy presents for the children's festival on Christmas eve was considerably augmented, for the children and friends of the Sunday school wish to thank those who kindly favored us with their presence and purchase of our refreshments.

Mr. Wilson Todale has the past week placed a new large upon the Point line which is a gem. It was built by James R. Wild of Quincy, at a cost of $200, and the work is first class in every respect. The large is fastened in yellow and dark vermilion, and the lettering of Todale on either side in gilt gives a finish to the whole.

Inside it is prettily upholstered and durably finished, but its good qualities are hardly appreciable until one makes a ride in it. The most important point, e. g. is to make a smooth riding carriage. Mr. Todale seems to be sparing no pains to make the line the best of every respect.

Patrons can be found on sale at the Post Office in Quincy, Mass.

Miss A. Bartlett is having her dry goods store on Copeland street, near Granite, converted to nearly twice its former size. John Cashman was confined to the house the first week of the week by an aggravated sore throat.

The entertainment in the lecture course Wednesday evening, consisted of readings by Miss Emma Fuller, songs by Miss Abbie Hayward, and readings and songs by Mrs. Furber. All were very satisfactory.

A movement is being made to organize a division of Sons of Temperance in this village. Forty thirty have signified their intention to join, and a meeting will be held at the M. E. Church this evening.

Patrick Garrit, while on his way to church Sunday morning, was taken to his home by a "rattle through the Rocky Mountains" on Wednesday evening, in the lecture course at the M. E. Church.

The machinery for W. E. Badger & Co. for the manufacture of rollers for skates, arrived this week.

F. J. Fuller is preparing a polished granite column, nine inches in diameter and forty inches high, consisting of samples of eight kinds of granite, to be exhibited at the World's Exposition.

The new which our Village Improvement Society is ambitious to do for our town, and certainly will do, if our people give it the co-operation it merits, is a grand work and a beautiful one.

A few of the ladies of the town, knowing what satisfactory ends have been attained by other like societies in other towns, feel a desire that our own Quincy society shall become as efficient, and they resolved to show this desire in a practical way.

It is not intended that this occasion shall be the only one of the kind under their auspices this winter and if, after the hurry and festivities of the holidays, they offer you other opportunities of showing your sympathy and interest, it is hoped they will receive the same cordial support and co-operation they were given on this occasion.

Mr. Loring D. Brown is recovering from his recent serious sickness.

An effort is being made to secure an additional street light on Depot street.

E. R. W. Wadsworth's house has been improved by trimmings of dark green.

Mr. Walter B. Leonard is confined to his house on Myrtle street by pneumonia.

A petition for the change of the boundary between Quincy and Milton has been presented to the Selectmen. The new boundary would make Hancock street wholly in Quincy.

Did Captain Newton have the roof of his house painted red in honor of the election of Grover Cleveland? Perhaps he is; if so, the post office on Hancock street was quickly extinguished. No alarm was given.

A spark from a freight train which passed a few moments before was the probable cause.

About 3:45 Tuesday morning the hay stacks which stood near the Atlantic depot were discovered to be on fire. Hose was attached to a hydrant near by and the fire was quickly extinguished. No alarm was given.

Wollaston.

Mr. W. W. Rice is building a stable. The flow of water at the public fountain has been shut off for the winter. The Alabama Colored Students gave a concert at Wollaston Hall on Wednesday evening. There was a very small attendance.

The young people's society met at the residence of Rev. G. A. Litchfield on Wednesday evening. The meeting was unusually attractive and a good time was the result.

A public meeting is called for this evening to meet at Wollaston Hall, for the purpose of consulting upon the question of a city government of the town of Quincy. All are invited, whether in favor of or opposed to the suggested change. The call is signed by J. G. Witham, H. T. Whitman and G. F. Pimkin.

Hose No. 2 at Wollaston, will be manned by ten men and officered as follows:
Foreman.—Benj. King.
Assistant Foreman.—A. G. Olney.
Clerk.—Charles T. Balser.

The chief objection to the new style hose wagon is that where the hose is folded for any length of time it is liable to be weakened at the places where it is bent. On Saturday evening, Dec. 6th, the members of the late Chemical engine company sat down to an oyster supper at the residence of Mr. Geo. A. Litchfield. Among the guests were chief engineer J. M. Glover and assistant engineer Wm. C. Seelye. The Chemical engine has been stored in Mr. Francis D. Barn.

Mr. Wilson Todale has the past week placed a new large upon the Point line which is a gem. It was built by James R. Wild of Quincy, at a cost of $200, and the work is first class in every respect. The large is fastened in yellow and dark vermilion, and the lettering of Todale on either side in gilt gives a finish to the whole.

Inside it is prettily upholstered and durably finished, but its good qualities are hardly appreciable until one makes a ride in it. The most important point, e. g. is to make a smooth riding carriage. Mr. Todale seems to be sparing no pains to make the line the best of every respect.

Patrons can be found on sale at the Post Office in Quincy, Mass.

How I intend soon to have a supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Puts have this week buried their baby, Eva Augusta, after a long and severe illness. They have a sympathy of neighbors in their affliction.

Mr. Edward Foley is visiting in Concord. Mrs. Geo. Thomas' house has been much improved by painting.

Fuller, Foley & Co. are erecting a small two-story building for an office.

The granite engine has gone into winter quarters with a full load of granite. William Graze has been on the sick list this week.

Clock & Sons have shut down for a few days, until business shall improve a little.

THE Quincy Patriot.
SATURDAY, DEC. 13, 1884.
Pass It On.
An Arab came to the river side
With a donkey bearing an obelisk;
But he would not try to find the tide,
For he had too good an "if."
—Boston Globe.

So he camped all night by the river side,
And remained till the tide had ceased to swell,
For he knew, should the donkey from life escape,
He would never find it!
—Salem Sunbeam.

In the morning he sought to ford the tide,
When the donkey stopped for the water to quaff,
The rider fell off, let the obelisk slide, Thus affording a newspaper "if."
—Boston Sentinel.

But in the eve when the tide was low
And the sun had set on the vegetation,
He stirred up the mud and made it go, Nor was he stopped by an "if."
—Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.

They reached their journey's end,
And the while was frisky under the lash,
And while the girls looked brightly on The mud and muck of the "if."
—Phila. Evening News.

And a very good impression made,
Thus filling their hearts with bliss,
For girls have often donkeys admired,
But this is said in "if."
—Chicago Specimen.

Farm and Garden.
Good Feeding.
The man who supposes he can make money by poor stock-feeding is a good deal of a fool. Especially is this true of cattle and other animals used for man for food. Horses in good condition and doing but little work, with not much fat, expected of them for months ahead, can be best fed on a limited diet; but generally—as if to show how short-sighted many men are—they are treated the best of all farm animals. Many a farmer keeps his horses fat and sleek, while his cows are forced to go hungry and show their bones at every step. Yet the cows bring an income in the winter, if well fed, and the horses labor in warm stables under blankets, with little to do except make a show occasionally on the road. Common business sense teaches that cows, if anything, should be the ones to get in cold weather, because, in addition to dairy products and the annual calf, a cow in good flesh can be turned off almost any time for beef, and good condition is so important when any accident happens to her which necessitates speedy killing. But a cow cannot give much milk unless well fed, because what little she does get must go to supply the waste of the body.

When a cow has recovered from the immediate effects of giving birth to a calf, she is usually in the flush of milk-giving, and if abundantly fed from that time on, the milk-yield can be maintained undiminished for months;
but if by niggardly feeding her milk-yield is allowed to run down, it is almost or quite impossible to restore it by the most liberal feeding until the calf is dropped. Let a farmer, therefore, mean to give a cow nearly all she will eat, or enough so that she is moderately fat all the time. If with such feeding she does not give milk enough to pay a good profit, she should be got rid of at the earliest moment, and a new one that pays her cost, for board and her milk-yield should both be recorded. This takes a little time and care; but why does a man insist on work, year after year, when he cannot tell, to save his life, whether he does it or not, for a profit? If he knows, as some claim, that the herd, as a whole, is profitable,
there is still the case of individual cows being kept at a loss; and why should anybody do that to avoid the trifling trouble of disposing of a cow? It is only a stupid and senseless to keep cows at a loss, as much so as to board a man for two dollars a week when the cash outlay is three dollars. Nothing but the selfish habit of doing things carelessly, or because of old and absurd customs, can be urged in defense
of the system.—Hearthstone, Farm
and Nation.

If philanthropic New England capitalists would establish banks where farmers could hire money at the same low rates at which loans are made upon city property, it would serve to increase the prosperity of this section, and to build up its agriculture, at the same time affording a safe investment for money lenders. It is undoubtedly the fact that the farmers of New England are obliged to pay far too high rates for the money which they borrow,
and yet to security can be safer than cultivated land.—Pioneer.

ANECDOTES.
"Pa," said a little seven-year-old boy, "I guess our man Ralph is a good Christian."
"How so, my boy?" queried the parent.
"Why, pa, I read in the Bible that the wicked shall not live out half his days, and Ralph says he has lived out ever since he was a little boy."

The funeral services at the church were just over. "What did you think of the sermon?" asked one mourner of the other on the way to the grave.
"It was an excellent sermon," was the reply. "I enjoyed it very much."

A countryman, who was camping with wagon and team in the suburbs of Austin, missed one of his horses.
"Why don't you apply to the police?"
suggested a city friend.
"Do you think they stole him?" was the innocent response.

When does a cow become real estate?
When she is turned into a field.
If your uncle's sister is not your aunt what relation is she to you?
Your mother.

What is the last blow a defeated ship gives in battle? Striking her own flag.
Why is a mother who spoils her children like a person building castles in the air? She indulges infancy too much.

What is the difference between a toper and a temperance woman? What he drinks is what staggers him and she drinks is what staggers her.

Why is a pig in a parlor like a house on fire? The sooner it is put out the better.

Fashion Notes.
Bands of velvet called armlets are worn outside of the sleeves near the top, and fastened with an ornamental clasp.
Black or brown velvet round hats have a novel trimming in bands of white Angola wool.
Decollete dresses have a knot of ribbon almost at the shoulder, and the long gloves nearly meet it.
Among the new combinations of colors are Minerva blue and tobacco brown, violet and gray or lilac, ecrú and plum.
The newest slippers for brides are made of gros grain silk, some of them having the toe embroidered in small white silk flowers.
For a matron a black velvet bodice, richly embroidered or beaded, with skirt and tunic of black satin trimmed to correspond, is very handsome.
A novelty in dress bonnets this season is the entire bonnet made up of white Angola lace, in which many gold or silver threads are interwoven.
In many dresses a fold of red or of pale yellow velvet is basted inside the collar and sometimes extends down the front beyond the edge of the buttons.
All brown furs are in high favor.
High collared shoulders are the rule for dressy wraps.

Household Receipts.
MUFFINS. Two eggs, one cup of sugar, four cups of flour, four teaspoon-fuls of baking powder, milk enough to make a batter. Bake in muffin rings.
LEMON JELLY. One half box of gelatin, one scant cup of sugar to one quart of hot water, set on stove until dissolved, then take off and cut two juicy lemons into the liquid, and strain into a mould.
APPLE CREAM. Three tart apples, baked slowly and thoroughly; be careful not to brown the pulp; when done, remove the skins and cores, and add one and a half cups of sugar, whites of two eggs, juice of one lemon. Beat to stiff froth or cream. Eat with custard.

STEWED CHICKEN. Season and stew a chicken in a quart of water until very tender; take it out on a hot dish and keep it warm; then put into the liquor a lump of butter the size of an egg; mix a little flour and water smooth and make a thick gravy, season with salt and pepper and salt, and let it come to a boil. Turn over the chicken and serve hot.

POTATO NOODLES. Grate one dozen of boiled potatoes, add two eggs, a little salt, one-half cup of milk, enough water to make a stiff dough, roll in small pieces, and roll long and round, one inch thick in plenty of oil to a nice brown.

THE best remedy for cramp, the simplest and the most efficacious that I know of, is a hand of cork. It is easily made by cutting a small new wine-cork into thin slices, which must be sewn close together upon ribbon or tape an inch wide. It can be tied round any part affected, and worn during the night.

To clean frosted silver ornaments dissolve a lump of soda in a pan of boiling water and place them in it, and leave them for a few minutes; add a small piece of yellow soap, and rub the articles with a soft cloth, and with a soft tooth brush. After taking them from the water place them in a hot oven on a brick until the desired effect is produced.

THIS and THAT.
Whether little babies think or not is not a matter of much importance as the fact that at the most unseemly hours they can set others to thinking pretty seriously.
What becomes of the pins? used to be an interesting question, but now
carelessly, or because of old and absurd customs, can be urged in defense
of the system.—Hearthstone, Farm
and Nation.

Education which shall include the round of human necessity is the ark of human safety. Educate sufficiently and the problem of human destiny is solved.
A German scientist says that every cubic foot of air contains 15,000, 000 insects, and a travelling man says that the country hotel beds that he has been sleeping in must be built entirely of air.

headed man, and her lady friends are wondering how she manages to make

"If, in instructing a child, you are vexed with it for want of address, try,
if you have never before, to write with your left hand, and then remember that a child is all left hand."
—Gentleness is not the virtue of the multitude, and for this reason: Selfishness is often the consequence of ignorance, and it requires a cultivated mind to discern where the rights of others interfere with our own wishes.

od now says "father" in the good old

The Quincy System Denounced.
PHILA., Nov. 28th, 1884.
To the Editors of the Patriot:
Enclosed you will please find an article
cut from the Philadelphia Inquirer, in which Dr. Edward Brooks speaks of the Quincy School System in a very depreciative manner, and if you would insert the same in your columns it might be vindicated by some friend of the Quincy system.
Yours,
A CITIZEN OF QUINCY.

[From the Philadelphia Inquirer.] MATCH CHASE, Pa., Nov. 27.—This was the day of the Carlin County Institute in session here. Not only a large number of doctors, but many teachers from Luzerne and other counties were present. The morning session opened with a talk from Dr. G. G.
Goff, of Luzerne, on "How to be a Successful Teacher." He gave many practical experiments by which teachers could interest both pupils and parents. Professor S. A. Barter, of Reading, followed with a talk on "Reading." He believed the war on oral spelling to have been unnecessary, and thought there were many good reasons for the use of the word-book. Dr. Edward Brooks, president of the National School Teachers' Association, addressed the teachers of the subject of "Deductive Teaching." He explained its principles and emphasized its merits. He cited the Quincy school system as one which carried the principles through the various grades, and when it had done with school they were wholly unfamiliar with the principles of life. Superintendent Coghill, of Luzerne county, discussed the geography of the child's vision. Colonel L. P.
Copeland addressed the teachers on the importance of their work. This evening Colonel Copeland lectured on "Sabbath and Sabbath-keeping."

—IS NOW—READY FOR DELIVERY
At the Patriot Office.
It contains 180 octavo pages and is devoted exclusively to Quincy.

Price 60 Cents.
In it will be found the names of over 4000 citizens, their business and the streets they reside on. Also, the churches, post offices, railroad stations, cemeteries, halls, wharves, hills,
streams, bridges, etc.
Also, a general business directory of the town, each branch classified and arranged for the convenience of the public, town officers, public schools and town officers, corporations, religious and charitable societies and associations; temperance, political and social societies; advertising cards from twenty-five or more of the principal granite companies in town, and about nearly all of the important business places in Quincy.
This Directory has cost us over $400
to publish; and it is sold for the low price of 60 cents.
Sent to any part of the United States,
postage prepaid, on receipt of 60 cents.
Any orders received at the Patriot
Office will meet with prompt attention.

Christmas at the Churches.

The observances at the several churches in Quincy, either on Christmas eve or Christmas night were up to the usual standard, and the children and many older ones enjoyed the festivities.

The Universalists assembled at their commodious and well arranged vestry at an early hour on Christmas eve. There was a supper between 6.30 and 7.30 for the children, who enjoyed the abundance of ice cream and cake, bananas and goodies set before them. Each of the Sunday School was presented with a bon-ton, and the grotesque headgear added much to the mirthfulness of the occasion. Perfect freedom was given to all, and the little amusements made everybody happy. There were pantomimes, etc., and a very pleasant evening passed. The Christmas concert postponed from last Sunday evening because of the storm, will take place to-morrow evening. All are invited.

The Congregational Church had a Christmas tree for the children of the primary department on Wednesday afternoon, and about eighty of the little ones were present. There were presents, candy, etc., for all. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Norton, and the superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. Charles W. Carter, made remarks, and there was singing. A delightful and there was singing. A festival was held in the evening by the Sunday School. The exercises were amusing and entertaining, and consisted of shadow pantomimes, choruses, dialogues, and music. Little balls containing oranges, nuts and candy were distributed to all. Instead of the usual Christmas tree, the members of the school brought gifts, which included money and a large variety of useful and fancy articles, for the poor children of the "Children's Friend Society" of Boston. They were received by a committee and arrayed for exhibition in the chapel Wednesday evening, and were subsequently sent to the above-named society to be placed on the children's Christmas tree this (Saturday) evening. The whole occasion was most delightful.

The Sunday School of the Christ Church had a Christmas tree on Wednesday evening. The church was elaborately and profusely festooned and trimmed with evergreen and holly. The singing of the carols as published in the PATRIOT of last week by the large and well-trained chorus was excellent. The children of the school presented the church with an elegant prayer book. The tree was well loaded with valuable presents. On Christmas morning at 10.30 services were held appropriate to the day. Again the singing was very prominent and excellent, and we learn the same programme is to be repeated at the services to-morrow. Following the above service, communion was observed.

Probably no church in town had so many services on so well attended as the St. John's Catholic Church. The church was well filled at each of the four services. The singing was excellent, and the services impressive. This church has been noted for some time for the excellence of its music. A very large sum was realized from a collection that was taken at the morning service. The church and altar were tastefully decorated.

The First Church commenced to observe Christmas at four o'clock at Faxon Hall, when the younger members of the Sunday School met for a good time. There were games, dancing and marching until about half-past six, and each child appeared in a masquerade or bon-ton cap, adding to the mirthfulness of the occasion. A splendid supper was served in the lower room. Returning to the hall after the supper, all were much amused and entertained by a programme which included selections on the piano by Mr. J. B. Stearns and Miss Minnie A. Rodgers, singing by Mrs. Grace Adams and Maud Field, and the presentation of the English Christmas play and pantomime of Little Red Riding Hood in three acts, arranged by Thomas Hoode. The parts in the play were taken as follows:

Red Riding Hood, Miss Helen M. Shale, Jack, Wilson Marsh, Mother, Henry L. South, Wolf, J. Henry Shale, Fairy, Miss Maud Shale.

In the pantomime the first four were changed into various objects by the fairy. The whole entertainment was interesting and enjoyed by all.

Identified as Frederic L. Titus. The body of the young man who was found hanging to a tree in the woods on Thanksgiving day has been identified by Mr. Charles M. Titus of Boston, as that of his brother, Fred L. Titus. The deceased who had been living with his brother, left on the Tuesday before Thanksgiving with the evident intention as he stated of going to his father's home in Vermont, to see his mother. The matter was then referred to the Boston police, but little resulted therefrom until Detective Farnham of Quincy connected it with the suicide in Quincy. He called Mr. Charles M. Titus' attention to it, and that gentleman visited this town last Saturday and identified the body as above stated. He could assign no cause for the untimely death. The deceased had been driving a herd in Boston previous to his death. The body was carried away Wednesday.

SEITE. Wednesday afternoon, officers Faxon, Farnham, Locke, Langley and Hanson, armed with a warrant, of James P. Nolan, the proprietor of a hall in connection with the house, a visit in search of liquor and also. They found containing in all 792 bottles, it was all labelled beer. Nolan informs us that it was not that it did not contain anything to make it interesting, but that it will have been. He wishes it under the house does not keep liquor for sale; and that the house shall be a credit to the town and himself. The case will come before the District Court Monday, Jan. 12.

Brief Locals.

- Coasting.
- Sleighting.
- Cold weather.
- A Happy New Year.
- There was pretty good sleighing Christmas day.
- Mr. Daniel Baxter has been very feeble this week.
- The afternoons have gained seven minutes in length.
- The very changeable weather has caused much sickness in town.
- The boys have had a few days of skating since the cold snap.
- Miss Nellie French is at home for the Christmas holidays.
- Mr. Gordon McKenzie has been quite sick this week.
- Tickets for the Kate Field lecture are for sale at John O. Holden's.
- The gas Company remember the employees at Christmas with turkeys.
- Peter Bisson, Jr., left town Monday for a month's visit to Virginia.
- A fire escape has been attached to Coddington school annex this week.
- Rev. Mr. Wilson will deliver a new year's sermon to-morrow morning.
- A fine exhibition was advertised to take place at the Coliseum last evening.

Now that the rink is opened we expect the town will be woke up a little. The Boston Branch store has sold nearly a ton of candy the past week. There were two sessions at the rink on Christmas day which were well attended. Mr. Henry H. Faxon has remembered many of his friends this week with costly knives. The Mount Wollaston Lodge of Odd Fellows will elect their officers next Wednesday evening. Sunday evening services were postponed at several churches last Sunday because of the heavy rain. Rev. John D. Wells was ordained pastor of the Unitarian Church twenty-four years ago to-day. The Associated Charities arranged that the deserving poor in Quincy should have a good Christmas dinner. Communion services were held at the First Church last Sunday at the close of the morning services. The Quincy post office was pretty well taxed by the extra amount of work brought about by Christmas. Miss Susie C. Flint arrived home last Saturday morning from Geneva, N. Y. She will return Saturday, Jan. 3. The schools closed Tuesday night and the pupils and teachers will enjoy a vacation until Monday morning, Jan. 5. Mr. Morton and Miss Josie Morton have gone to Indianapolis, where we learn Mr. Arthur A. Morton is very ill. Policeman Faxon has two cases against the proprietor of the billiard hall at the Robertson House, for allowing minors therein. The call for a public meeting will be found in another column. It is signed by fourteen prominent citizens, who hope to see a full meeting.

The sales of turkeys, chickens and geese, and also of nuts and raisins was very large the day before Christmas, exceeding it is believed, that of other years.

Sunday was a very stormy day. The snow which fell Saturday night and Sunday morning was entirely carried away by the heavy rain of Sunday afternoon and evening. We would call the attention of our readers to the card of Hugh McPhail in our columns. He is prepared to make in a first class manner and repairing in all its branches.

At a Sunday evening service of the First Church a week from to-morrow the Rev. James De Normandie of Boston, will speak on "Social purity and suppression of vice."

Several ladies styling themselves the "G. H. F." gave a benefit ball at the Town Hall, last Friday evening. Music was furnished by Grant's band, and a good time enjoyed. The concert which was to have been given by the Universalist Sunday school last Sunday evening, was postponed, owing to the storm, to next Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock.

Hon. Chas. F. Adams, Jr., has been invited to preside in the Coliseum on the occasion of Miss Field's lecture, Tuesday evening, Jan. 6. He will have a large audience to confront him.

Mrs. Lydia A. Follett who left on Wednesday of last week, for a visit with her sister in the far west, must have encountered the rough blocking snow storms which prevailed in the west the first of the week.

The opening of the New Year is celebrated at the Universalist vestry on Thursday night next with an Old Folks concert with modern and attractive features. The old folks always draw full houses, and all are sure to be happy.

An effort is being made to establish a polo league in this vicinity. The new rink will be a splendid place for the sport. It is expected that clubs will enter from Quincy, East Weymouth, North Abington, Brockton, Rockland, North Easton, and Plymouth.

Mr. Isaac M. Holt has placed on our desk fine specimens of the fruit growing in his orange grove, in Sorrento, Florida. There were three varieties of orange, also some lemons. The first was large and very handsome looking and we think that we shall be tempted, to accept our friend's invitation to pass a winter in the land of oranges and feast on his rich and delicious fruit.

The following out-of-town persons have been registered at the Robertson House, the past week: W. A. Lockwood of New York City; Fred Rich of Rochester, N. Y.; John Richards of Clark Island, Me.; Alvin E. Gray and Eben Gray of Exeter, N. H.; William A. Hicks of Cambridge, and the following from Boston, Wm. H. Dolbear, Daniel W. Cameron, P. H. Kimball, C. M. Carter, P. H. Fenwick, M. B. Bell, C. M. Bell, Thos. Curley and H. F. Hayward.

Good bye, 1884.

The Independents are to a meeting at the Lyceum room evening. Several young ladies are to give a leap year dance at the Robertson house on Tuesday evening. The work for the flagmen at the Quincy depot has commenced in earnest now that the rink is opened.

Last evening was the meeting for the annual election of officers of Merry Mount Lodge, Knights of Honor. The Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company has had a very successful year, and has increased its cash fund $25,000.

The Faxon fountain stood the severe test it was put to last Friday and Saturday night. It was slightly frozen over the first of the morning, but afterwards gave good service.

Michael Sullivan came near meeting a terrible death on Wednesday evening. He had laid down on the railroad track near the Quincy depot, but he was discovered in time by the engineer.

The grand ball for the benefit of Mr. John Merritt, who has lost his eyesight, is to be held next Wednesday evening at the Town Hall. A large committee have the arrangements in charge. A prize of ten dollars is to be given to the best waiters.

Misses Farnham and Nash, the operators of the central office of the Quincy telephone exchange are fixing the headquarters up very neatly at their own expense. The room has been newly painted and we learn that the floor is to be carpeted, and that drapery curtains will adorn the windows.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Rev. J. L. Harris, pastor of the Congregational church preached an interesting Christmas sermon on Sunday morning from the text found in Luke 2 chap. 10 and 11 verses. The Christmas service, which was to have followed in the evening was postponed on account of the storm until to-morrow night.

On Wednesday, Christmas eve, the Sunday School connected with the church enjoyed a Christmas tree and entertainment. Although the evening was stormy a fair audience was in attendance, but the little ones for whom the whole was especially prepared were not present in any great number. The vestry was very prettily festooned with evergreen and trimmed with holly and wreaths. Two mottoes decorated the walls, "Glorify to God in the Highest," and "Our King's Birthday," and last but not least two well laden trees, brilliantly lit with tiny candles, proved the centre of attraction. The entertainment, consisting of readings, declamations and songs passed well. Mr. Fred H. Smith presented Santa Claus and after a neat welcome speech gave the expected ones their presents.

PERSONAL. Mr. and Mrs. Clift R. Crane and son spent Christmas at Pawtucket, R. I. Mr. Seth Sears principal of the Washington School is spending his vacation at the New Orleans Exposition. Mr. Tisdale's advertisement of the coach line table is much missed from the columns of the PATRIOT.

Mr. Joseph W. Hayden the drawer-ender has been quite sick the past week.

COLD WEATHER. Friday and Saturday of last week were decidedly cold days. Friday dawned cold and blustering the temperature being 10° above zero and growing rapidly colder, and was as a whole most disagreeable day and especially hard for teamsters. Saturday morning the temperature was 14° below which is as low as the glass went last winter on Dec. 23. Frozen cars without number were carefully nursed on Sunday. Two or three ladies in the place whose windows always look cheerful through the cold weather with beautiful plants had them all frozen.

THIS AND THAT. Tickets for Miss Kate Field's wonderful lecture "The Mormon Monster," are for sale at the Quincy Point post office. Christmas passed off very quietly at the Point, a number of the young people visited the Skating Rink in the evening. The schools are now enjoying the Christmas vacation.

SHIPPING. ARRIVED, Dec. 13, Schooner Geo. Albert, Capt. Robinson, from Calais, Maine, with 100,000 feet of lumber for Benj. Johnson.

Dec. 16, Schooner Flora Condon, Capt. French, from New York, with 374 tons of coal for Joel Sheppard.

TEMPLE OF HONOR. On Monday evening last, Granite Temple celebrated its eighth anniversary at their hall on Washington street, with an entertainment consisting of excellent readings by Miss Lillian Dwinell of East Boston; organ solos by Mr. William Wilson of Quincy; and singing by Mrs. C. Philip Trill, all of which were worthy of the highest praise.

The following brothers made a few remarks explanatory of the object of the order: Rev. R. T. Sawyer, D. F. Badger, and F. J. Paul, of Granite Temple; Bro. Gilson from Trinitant Temple, Boston; Bro. Thompson and Lee of Mechanic's Temple, East Weymouth; Bro. Brown from Morning Star Temple, Framingham. Bro. Sawyer was presented with a beautiful chart of emblems in behalf of the members of the order. The evening's enjoyment was closed with a collation, consisting of ice cream, coffee, cake, etc. There were about fifty ladies and gentlemen present, and all were unanimous in expressing it an enjoyable time.

END OF VOLUME. With this number the PATRIOT closes its forty-eighth volume. The present year has been one of the most successful it has enjoyed. We think that we shall be continuing increasing circulation, and a liberal advertising patronage, which knows the value of its columns, it has become the most successful newspaper published in Norfolk County. Our thanks are due to one and all, and we wish them a happy new year.

JURORS. Messrs. John Chamberlin and John Curtis, 21, are serving as jurors at the civil session of the December term of the Superior Court, which is now in session at Dedham.

Wollaston.

The Sunday School at the Baptist Church observed Christmas on Christmas eve. The church was never more elaborately or beautifully trimmed. The arrangement in the rear of the hall by Mr. Henry Gannett was especially fine. The check from Mr. H. Faxon was used in providing a set of books for each scholar. The entertainment, under the direction of George A. B. Johnson, consisted of singing and recitations. One of the girls represented the four seasons; appropriate costumes were used. There were interchanges of pretty gifts from a beautifully dressed tree, and feasting and merriment, and a happy time was the result, and every one was joyful.

The Congregational Sunday School had a Christmas tree and Santa Claus on Christmas night. The superintendent was present with a handsome framed picture of the Holy Family. Miss Mabel Thayer received an elegant blue suit for being present every Sunday for the year. Several of the teachers were remembered with very fine presents by their classes. Mrs. J. G. Witham gave a very richly worked and deep sofa pillow. Mrs. George R. Platt received a very pretty umbrella, and others were remembered with books, Ice cream and cake, and a very pleasant evening. The exercises consisted of readings, music, etc., and was a very satisfactory and enjoyable Christmas.

The Christmas festival, Thursday evening at the M. E. Church Wollaston, was an unusually pleasant occasion. The tree was tastefully decorated and well loaded with gifts. The pastor received many valuable presents, among which were a box containing fifty silver dollars. The superintendent of the Sabbath school, Mr. A. H. H. Johnson received a silver cake box, the gift of friends in the school. A Helen C. Johnson recited a poem, a merrily adapted to the occasion, at the other parts of the programme were well carried out. The mystery of Santa Claus is now settled in the minds of the little folks, for they saw him Christmas night, come down the chimney. The committee succeeded in making this part of the evening's entertainment the source of a great deal of amusement.

Very wintry weather. Rev. F. E. Dewhurst discourses on "Well-to-do to-morrow." The children are enjoying the vacation coasting and skating.

The road up to the cars of the Old Colony Railroad, makes it necessary to take off two or three inches from the stone platform at the depot and workmen have been at work this week.

At a regular meeting of Merry Mount Division, Sons of Temperance, on Thursday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

W. P.—R. G. Wilbur.
W. A.—Lizzie Griffin.
F. N.—Albert E. Rhoades.
Treas.—May Wilbur.
R. S.—F. P. Whitman.
St. Nicholas—Wm. Corthell.
Song—Wm. Chamberlain.
Cond.—J. Hadany.
A. C.—A. Bass.
J. S.—Agnes Griffin.
O. S.—This Education.
P. W. P.—D. F. Badger.

The above will be installed on Thursday evening, January 8th. At the close of the division a social entertainment was enjoyed.

For the Patriot.

On the Rollers.

At the Quincy Coliseum, on Tuesday evening, at the grand opening, five hundred persons were present, and an excellent band of twelve pieces under the lead of Mr. Charles E. Paine. N. H. Trask, the manager, we find a pleasant fellow, well adapted to the business; and he has six assistants, all social, pleasant fellows, anxious that all their patrons shall enjoy themselves.

This grand structure was erected by Mr. W. W. Rice of Wollaston; master builder, Mr. A. Sherman of Wollaston, with an occasional eye from Mr. H. H. Faxon. Mr. Rice, during the completion of this building, gave the use of it to the Republican party for a rally; also to the Democratic and Independent; also to the Catholic society for a Coffee Party; at the normal sum of heating and lighting.

The dimensions of this building are one hundred and eighty by eighty feet; skating surface, one hundred and sixty by sixty; stank heated. It is accommodation as a rink is two and a half acres; a theatre four thousand. This building is expressly for skating, but will be let to theatre and concert troupes, and societies and lodges, who wish to engage it at reasonable prices. This edifice is an ornament as well as a blessing to Quincy. Skating is a social blessing, as well as enjoyment, recreation and exercise to children, youth and old age; and when at the rink they are well cared for and are away from the thousands of temptations that is enticing so many of our young away from good morals and habits, and we shall enjoy better health, live longer, make home brighter and pleasanter, and die happier.

City or Town.

The committee interested in the government of Quincy held a meeting at the School Committee's Room on Monday evening. The several sub-committees, with the exception of the one on address, report on the progress that had been made. The committee to report if a change was necessary were decidedly in favor of becoming a city, and set forth several reasons therefor. The committee to report on the one on small cities and the other on large towns—had received replies from circulars addressed to Brockton, Newburyport, Somerville, Chelsea, Malden, Woburn, Adams, Marlboro, Clinton, Attleboro, Peabody, and other cities and towns, which contained much information and were many of them very interesting and convincing. The committee to report on the charter of the city of Brooklyn had made a careful study of the same and gave a clear, concise statement of it. The meeting after hearing the above reports voted to invite the citizens of the town to meet in a mass meeting to consider the question of a city government on Thursday evening, Jan. 8th. The committee adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman.

Mrs. Esther Hunt of Braintree, who has many friends in this town, left on Monday last for Washington City, where she intends spending the winter.

Atlantic News.

The teachers and pupils of the Quincy School celebrated the close of the term and Christmas by a gathering in the building Tuesday afternoon. The children spoke pieces, and a small Santa Claus hastily improvised, appeared and in an appropriate speech paid tribute to our fine corps of teachers, and included our good superintendent and the committee who generously give of their time and thought in a Christmas greeting. There were interchanges of pretty gifts from a beautifully dressed tree, and feasting and merriment, and a happy time was the result, and every one was joyful.

The Sunday School connected with the Atlantic Mission had a Christmas tree on Christmas night. There was an abundance of presents and every one received one or more. Mr. Wade, the superintendent, was presented with a table. The exercises consisted of speaking, etc. It was a very pleasant occasion.

This week has been almost wholly given up to Christmas. Large numbers visited Boston the first of the week to do their shopping, and several mysterious looking bundles were brought home. A merry Christmas is the desire of all.

The school children have had a vacation since Tuesday, and it will continue all next week. Another marriage on New Year's day.

The relatives of Mr. Seth Bass are to celebrate that gentleman's seventy-fourth birthday to-day. Some of the younger people have visited the Quincy Coliseum, which among which was a notable wedding at "Old Spain" at which over one hundred of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present. The services took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Burrall on Bridge street, and were conducted by the Rev. Willis Leland. The happy couple united were Mr. Charles W. Joy of East Weymouth and Miss Eliza L. Burrall. The presents were numerous and costly, and the thrilling supper and cake enjoyed by all.

DEDICATED. The board of Grand Officers of Old Fellows went to Dorchester Lower Mills on Monday evening, and dedicated the hall recently built by Dorchester Lodge, No. 200 of the fraternity were present. H. B. Locklin, Past Grand, delivered an oration, and remarks were made by the grand officers. A fine banquet followed. The new lodge room is handsomely fitted up.

The profits to Moody and Sankey on the sale of their revival hymn books are said to have reached half a million dollars. No other publications in this field have approached these in popularity. The proceeds are divided equally between the evangelists. Moody has endowed a school with a part of his share, and it is now reported that Sankey is about to do something handsomely philanthropic.

The Selectmen have been petitioned by Mr. Louis Walters and forty-eight others for a new town way starting from a point Bates' avenue, near land of B. Rooney, thence crossing the land of the Granite Railway Company, and thence in a nearly easterly direction in as direct line as possible to the point on Willard street, opposite the intersection with Cemetery street. Such a street would accommodate the growing village in the vicinity of Bates avenue and Grove street, who now have to go along the railroad or else by the roundabout way of Robertson street to reach West Quincy village.

District Court, Quincy. Herbert M. Burrell for being drunk was fined $1 and costs, and in default was committed to jail.

John Hines and Patrick Keenan, for being tramps at Quincy were sent to a warm home at Westboro' for six months. James Dolan of Quincy for being drunk, fined $1 and costs.

A PREDICTION. Notwithstanding the phenomenally late season, an old Connecticut weather prophet maintains that the coming winter will be remarkably severe. He bases his predictions on the preparations which he says have been made by wild animals in their winter homes. Squirrels and mice, he says, have made their nests unusually thick and strong, and the squirrels have buried their supplies of nuts at an unusual depth. Corn husks are notably thick and tight, and the gum on horse chestnut buds is especially abundant.

NORTH WEYMOUTH. On Tuesday evening there was a notable wedding at "Old Spain" at which over one hundred of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present.
